Strive Today to Halt Auto Strike of 250,000

FACTORIES DEFY
LABOR LEADERS AND HIT AT NRAWalkout Scheduled for Wednesday.

New York, March 18.—(Special.)—What is regarded as a final effort to avert a general strike in the automobile industry, which may affect some 250,000 workers, will be undertaken here tomorrow morning at a meeting of the executive committee of the code authority for the industry at the office of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting will proceed under the eye of Gen. Hugh Johnson, the national recovery administrator, who is in this city and will hold himself in readiness throughout the day for such help and consultation as he may be called upon to give. With Gen. Johnson watching the meeting will be Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor and labor assistant to the NRA.

The strike has been set for Wednesday. The A. F. of L. unions are involved. The demands look toward recognition of the organizations and reinstatement of men said to have been discharged for unionist activity. The demands were presented in Washington last week. The union leaders then returned to Detroit, ready to call the strike.

All Members Affected.
The companies affected are the General Motors corporation and its subsidiaries, as well as the Chrysler and Packard companies, and about a dozen accessory plants in various parts of the country. Actually, however, the developments that may ensue as a result of today's meeting here will affect all members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. This includes all automobile manufacturing companies with the exception of Henry Ford, who is not a member of the chamber.

The executive committee of the code authority consists of Walter P. Chrysler, head of the Chrysler company; Alfred M. Sloan Jr., chief of General Motors; and Alvan Macauley, president of the Packard company. As a means of testing the validity of the claim put forward by the A. F. of L. unions to their right to represent all auto workers in collective bargaining, Gen. Johnson suggested to the code authority that an impartial board be set up to consider ways and means. The issue may be determined through an informal poll of the workers.

It was considered a distinct possibility that President Roosevelt may intervene directly in the situation and call representatives of both sides to the White House for conferences.

Auto Makers Stand Pat.
Detroit, Mich., March 18.—(Special.)—That the automotive industry does not intend to recognize the American Federation of Labor, nor to enter into any contract with it on behalf of automotive employees, was the declaration tonight of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce through its directors here.

The statement declared that the sole point at issue now is whether the industry is to be run by the A. F. of L. No signs of compromise were evident either on the demands of the labor organization or with the attempts at conciliation by the NRA. At one point the statement declared that the automobile manufacturers have "complied with the NRA in letter and spirit," that collective bargaining is recognized, and that "every employee has the right to be represented by a spokesman of his own choosing."

Thousands Hold Meetings.
At the time the statement was issued thousands of workers in Detroit and adjacent automobile centers were holding meetings for the discussion of their grievances and to await the outcome of the N. A. C. C. meeting in New York tomorrow.

More than 1,000 heard William Collins, American Federation of Labor representative, outline the procedure to be followed if a strike is called in the automobile industry.

Collins, who said he probably would direct operations in the event of a strike, assured the workers that the strike was not "fundamentally for better working conditions or pay increases, but for the enforcement of section 7A of the NRA." A complete program for the conduct of the strike when and if called, was made public at the meeting.

MUSSOLINI SEES WORLD FASCIST ERA IN 60 YEARSReveals Program for Italian 'Primacy.'

ROME, March 18.—(AP)—A 60 year program of internal and external expansion which in the 11th century will give Italy the "primacy of the world" was outlined today by Premier Mussolini in a speech to 5,000 cheering chief fascists of the kingdom.

That century, he said, will be a "blacklist era."

The dictator spoke in the Rome Opera house to the so-called quinquennial assembly of the regime one week before the five year election.

In the audience were virtually all of Italy's noted men, including Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor, members of the cabinet, provincial prefects and other officials.

60 Year Plan.

"In this age of plans," Il Duce declared, "I want to lay before you a plan not for five years or ten years but for 60 years, carrying on to the 21st century, at which time Italy will have the primacy of the world."

"Italy has no future in the west and north. Her future lies to the east and south in Asia and Africa. The vast resources of Africa must be valorized and Africa brought within the civilized circle."

"I do not refer to conquest of territory but to natural expansion. We demand that nations which have already arrived in Africa do not block at every step Italian expansion."

Here, it was said, he was referring particularly to France.

Tells Immediate Objectives.

Internally, Mussolini said, immediate objectives are completion of swamp reclamation by 1940, new aqueducts and highways, plans to recreate Italian municipalities, complete rebuilding of 500,000 rural houses and repairs to 920,000 rural houses, a work of 30 years.

"Every rural person will have a clean and healthy house," he asserted. "Only in this way can the rush to the city be combated."

In the midst of a pandemonium of applause Mussolini said, "Fascism is universal in 1929."

"But in this phenomenon," he continued, "it is necessary to distinguish positive from negative Fascism. Positive Fascism knows how to destroy the old and rebuild the new, whereas negative Fascism knows only how to destroy."

Says Parliamentarism Law.

Persons near to Il Duce said they did not know to what nation he referred, although some mentioned Germany.

Parliamentarism, he declared, could not fall lower than it has. Countries where it exists, he said, are in agony, and it is inevitable that the "corporate system" should supersede it.

"The principles of the 19th century are dead," Mussolini said. "Democracy, socialism, liberalism, Masonry (the Masonic order) are finished. They mean nothing to the new generations. We are marching toward new forms of civilization in politics and in economics."

"The state has taken again its right and its prestige as the only supreme interpreter of the necessities of national society. The people are the body of the state and the state is the spirit of the people."

Tells Foreign Policy.

In reference to foreign policy, Mussolini said:

"Italy has held a policy of friendship with Austria ever since the war and will continue to do so. Austrian knows we can depend upon us to defend her independence and we will do all we can to help her economically."

"Italy, Austria, and Hungary yesterday signed political and commercial treaties of cooperation."

"Our relations with Yugoslavia," he said, "are diplomatically correct but nothing more. Yet the nations should be friendly, because they are complementary to each other."

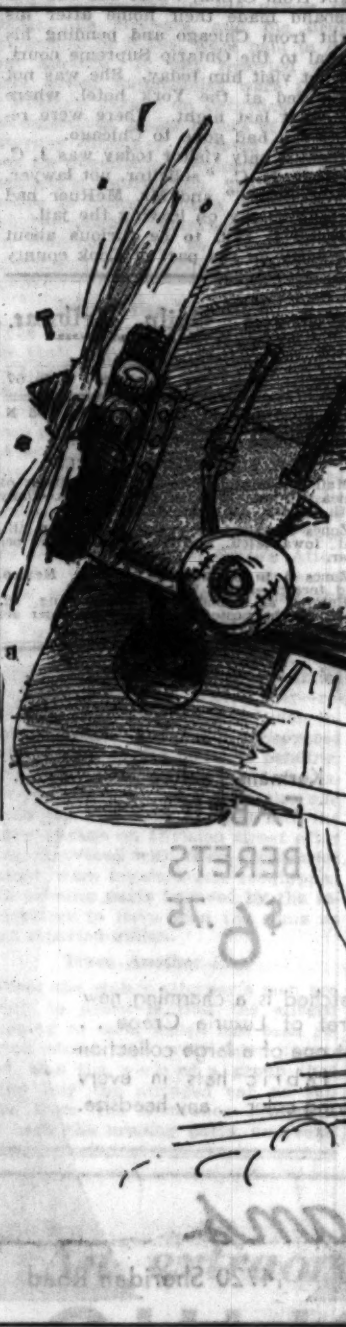

"Relations with France are better from a general viewpoint. But reality demands that none of the problems which have existed between us for 15 years be solved. Between Hungary and Italy there is comprehension and solidarity. Hungary asks for a gesture. She merits a better future."

Omits Mention of Germany.

Significantly absent was any reference to relations with Germany, which have cooled over the question of Austria's independence.

GOING FOR A RIDE

DOCTOR ARRIVES
JUST IN TIME TO SAVE LIVES OF 3

Shortly after midnight Dolores became ill and Oberg telephoned Dr. Walter L. Schaeffer, 1834 West Garfield boulevard. Although Oberg did not know it at the time, the child's illness resulted from a gradual consumption of oxygen in the home by a gas heater.

When Dr. Schaeffer arrived at the Oberg home he could get no answer at the door. He notified Englewood police. A squad responded and broke into the home. They found Oberg and his wife unconscious from the lack of oxygen which had first affected Dolores. Rescue squad 9 of the fire department, under Lieut. Tom Durkin, was summoned. The squad revived Mr. and Mrs. Oberg. Dolores, although affected, did not require the squad's assistance. Oberg, his wife, and child were taken to the Evangelical hospital. They will recover.

GETS STUCK IN BAKING OVEN FOR NEARLY AN HOUR

New York, March 18.—(AP)—William Phillips, repair man, was trapped for 45 minutes today in a baker's oven at 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

He was rescued by a police emergency squad and taken to Beekman Street hospital in a serious condition.

Phillips crawled into the oven just after the fire was drawn to repair the baking apparatus. He was unable to break out through the 16 inch oven door and bakery workers could not pull him out. He weighed 200 pounds.

Water could not be poured into the oven because the temperature, 155 degrees over the boiling point, might have caused suffocation by steam.

Police ripped off the steel front and removed the brick lining with hammers and chisels. After half an hour they were able to pull him out in a semiconscious state.

Bus Topples
on Auto; Two

A husband and wife were killed and 13 other persons were injured last night when a Milwaukee-bound Greyhound bus tangled front wheels with a touring car and both plunged eight feet into a ditch at Waukegan road and route 22, three miles west of Highland.

The dead victims are Lawson D. Parker, 31 years old, and his wife, Orlene, 25, 252 North 55th street, Milwaukee. They were crushed to death when the bus toppled onto their small car. Mr. Parker was an Armour company salesman and formerly lived in Chicago.

The Parker car, west bound on route 22, failed to stop at Waukegan road and Parker swung northward in an attempt to cut ahead of the bus, according to witnesses. The bus driver, William Mason, of Belvidere, swerved away, but the front wheels locked and both cars dropped off the edge of the road. The touring car was smashed and all windows of the bus were broken.

Bus Passengers Injured.

The 13 injured persons include the bus driver and 12 passengers. None of the injured was serious. The injured passengers were:

MRS. P. C. CHINEL, 35 years old, 6022 North Diversey boulevard, Whitefish Bay, Wis., and her son, Frederick Chinell, 5 years old.

D. J. CONDON, 31 years old, 3234 Cedar avenue, Minneapolis.

HENRY YENDKACZYK, 50 years old, 5645 Glenwood avenue.

MISS HELEN YOUNG, of the same address, his sister.

DAVID SINGER, 30 years old, 4755 North Central Park avenue, Chicago.

MRS. ROSE PORTER, 55 years old, 3009 Sheridan road, Chicago.

MISS CLARA PORTER, 28 years old, of the same address, her daughter.

M. E. BOENSDAHL, 20 years old, Rhinelander, Wis.

MRS. VIRGINIA KAPRILEAN, 24 years old, 2430 North Murray avenue, Milwaukee.

MISS JANE LORR, 20 years old, 2643 North Prospect street, Milwaukee.

CLAYTON WEBB, 22 years old, of Chittenden, Tenn.

Crash Delays Traffic.

Most of those injured were taken to the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest by Lake Forest police. The others, not so seriously hurt, were taken to the Highland Park hospital by police who arrived at the scene later. Several suburban fire departments went to the scene to disentangle the wrecked vehicles. Traffic at the intersection was delayed for thirty minutes.

TIME TO RELAX,
SOVIETS DECIDE;
WILL PERMIT JAZZ

(Copyright: 1934 By The New York Times.)

MOSCOW, March 18.—Just as 1933 is regarded here as the year that marked the turning point to success in soviet industry and agriculture, so 1934 is expected to bring a turning point in Russia's social life. Henceforth soviet leaders believe it is possible to relax the restrictions imposed during the period of struggle and to make life gay and brighter.

Since the beginning of the year popular dance halls have been opened in Moscow, Leningrad, and other cities, and the orchestras play jazz, which hitherto was taboo or was reserved for the so-called foreigners' hotels.

The fox trot, once branded as arch-bourgeois, is now a feature of workers' clubs, and American jazz records enliven the skating rinks of the soviet proletarian.

Well dressed and cheerful crowds of Russians now gather in the foreigners' hotels, eat, drink, and dance until 4 or 5 a. m. They represent all sections of soviet business and industry—young women and men employees of state trusts. The right to wear gay and more attractive clothes was granted some months ago, and office employees now are encouraged to wear white collars and to dress neatly.

Finds Old Tin Box.

This week began last Monday, Wojtylak was assigned to the work. He was cutting into the brick walls at an upper floor when he noticed a tin box. He opened it. A $10 bill, of the old, large size, fell out. There were other bills of various denominations. Wojtylak wrapped the box up in newspapers and took it to the barracks, where he counted the money.

According to a fellow worker, Wilbert Retzke, 4232 North Tripp avenue, there was a large sum of money in the roll.

Rumors soon spread that one of the workers had uncovered a treasure box. Lieut. L. H. Andre, in charge of the camp, admitted hearing about it, but said he understood that the "cash" amounted to only a small sum.

Treasure trove left at least one trail leading to Ye Otto Mill tavern, across the road from the grist mill, Jacob Brooks, owner, said one of the workers had patronized the place. He held up an old $10 bill as evidence.

At the Wojtylak home, a basement flat at 1821 Evergreen avenue, Chicago, Wojtylak shook his head in answer to the story he had found a huge amount of money. "I found an old letter purse with a little money in it," he said.

Whatever the treasure trove yielded, one thing is certain—excitement has come once again to Pullersburg.

CCC Worker Finds Treasure

Excitement has come once again to the all but forgotten village of Pullersburg, just north of Hinsdale, about 11 miles southwest of Chicago.

Founded more than a century ago, with a plank road to Chicago as its main link to the outside world, Pullersburg's history has been severely placid. Excitement came rarely, the notable exceptions occurring when Abraham Lincoln, not then President, visited the hamlet to deliver a speech; when Lola Fulmer, later a world famous dancer, was born in the town's tavern; and when the village's huge grist mill was built.

Treasure Trove in Mill.

This mill of Salt Creek, at the junction of York and Spring roads, was erected exactly 100 years ago, and it is in connection with the mill that Pullersburg's present excitement is concerned. A treasure trove has been found in the mill.

According to some reports the treasure trove yielded old style currency to the amount of $4,200. However, the finder, Stanley Wojtylak, 27 years old, 1821 Evergreen avenue, a Civilian Conservation Corps worker, denies that figure is correct.

The history of the money cache dates back to old Patrick Kammeeyer, patriarchal keeper of the Pullersburg mill. His father was foreman of the mill before him, and he followed in his father's steps. Patrick Kammeeyer worked and lived in the mill, and every week through the years, it is said, he hoarded substantial amounts of his weekly wages.

Writes to Only Brother.

In 1926 Kammeeyer, then 88 years old, drew up what to all intents was his last will. It was a letter which he sent to his only surviving brother in Rome, N. Y.

"I do not know how much longer I will live," Kammeeyer wrote. "When I die I want you to have everything I own. I have saved more than $4,000. This money I have in a box, hidden in the mill. It is yours when I die."

Two years later Kammeeyer, 90 years old, dropped dead, and not long afterward relatives came from the east to search through the old mill for the money he had written about. They did not find it. The matter was forgotten except by a few old time friends of the millkeeper.

It required the New Deal, displacing the old with the new, to uncover the treasure. Some months ago a Civilian Conservation Corps was established near Pullersburg, and one of its tasks was to build a dam in Salt Creek close by the old mill. To complete the job it was necessary to tear down the mill.

Finds Old Tin Box.

This week began last Monday, Wojtylak was assigned to the work. He was cutting into the brick walls at an upper floor when he noticed a tin box. He opened it. A $10 bill, of the old, large size, fell out. There were other bills of various denominations. Wojtylak wrapped the box up in newspapers and took it to the barracks, where he counted the money.

Treasurer Gets $24,000
in Sunday Tax Payments

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday reported the collection of approximately $24,000 in 1932 taxes from more than 400 taxpayers. The tax collection division of his office on the first floor of the county building, was kept open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. yesterday for the convenience of taxpayers. The office will be kept open on succeeding Sundays, at least until April 15, the penalty deadline on 1932 real estate taxes.

Australia to Make Homes for Poor British Farmers

SYDNEY, Australia, March 18.—(AP)—Australian representatives of the Empire Settlement League today were investigating possibilities of group settlement of British farmers in north-west New South Wales. The league aims to place destitute British farmers on tracts of about 10,000 acres. Products of these farms would be shipped to England and would not compete on local markets.

SHIP SAILS FOR MYSTERY HAVEN;

Martin Insull, who is being held in a Toronto, Ont., jail awaiting the arrival of Cook county officers to return him to Chicago to stand trial, went on a hunger strike yesterday. The former utilities magnate objected to the jail fare and was greatly annoyed by a ban on smoking.

Chartered Steamer
Heads for Suez.

Periodic reports of the course set by the dingy Greek tramp steamer Malotis, on which the former Chicago utilities czar is sailing slowly to the southeast, indicate its destination is Suez, and points east.

According to his friends here, he faces a month's cruise.

At Sea Until April 20.

Lawyer Xeros, one of Insull's staff of legal talent here, today said Insull planned to remain at sea, secure from American extradition, until April 20, or perhaps longer. Insull's ship is well stocked with provisions.

Only one spot in the world tonight was in touch with Insull's movements, and this source, which says by about 2 p. m. tomorrow, that spot is the Greek ministry of marine.

stated, Insull can instruct the course to be changed. In fact, he may hurry to South America or anywhere else as soon as the ship is 3 miles south of the island of Crete if he so desires.

Before sailing Insull said he planned to go to Djibouti, French Somaliland, in the gulf of Aden, and the entrance to Abyssinia.

The Maletta is expected to get outside of Greek territorial waters about 2 p. m. according to Greek naval officials who estimate its present speed of the vessel at eight knots. That is all the little ship will do and this only in fair weather with a helping wind.

Will Not Let Him Land.

Meanwhile, dispatches from Port Said indicated port authorities had received orders from the Egyptian government not to allow Insull to land if he arrived. If the vessel holds there, the one-time financier would not have to leave his ship and risk the chance of arrest.

Although Mrs. Insull was reported in bed tonight, George Pop, another lawyer for Insull, asserts he is going to France tomorrow. Pop explained why he assisted Insull in his departure last night with a Bible quotation from the eighth chapter and 39th verse of Matthew.

"Foxes have holes; birds of heaven have nests," he intoned, but he did not finish, for it might have seemed sacrilegious, "but the Son of Man has no place to lay his head."

Mrs. Insull has been closeted with Mrs. Kouroundjoglou, close friend of the family, as the investigation of her husband's flight continues. The Greek press reports that Subdirector Petousis of the Athens police department called for depositions of Insull and Capt. Mousouris last night and that the entire police file in the case will be submitted tomorrow to the public prosecutor.

May Prosecute Insull's Friend.

It is also declared the authorities are considering prosecuting Mrs. Kouroundjoglou on a charge of perjury in connection with Insull's getaway.

The Athens press was full of Insull stories today. Some of the stories, although they sound fantastic, undoubtedly came from the mouth of Insull himself. It was chiefly to the effect that he feared American kidnappers, not in Chicago, but actually in Greece.

Insull has expressed this fear of being "shanghaied" to the United States for a long time.

His departure and the manner of his flight astounded the Greek public and caused talk in beginning to turn in a strange direction. Why, it is asked, does he not place the case in the hands of competent counsel in the American courts rather than flee? It is freely asserted that Insull has an obsession that he is being persecuted.

Fears Physical Violence.

That idea appears to be a clear outgrowth of his contention when he was first arrested that he was a victim of political intrigue. He and his associates carefully built up the theory that he would be a victim of physical violence if he returned to Chicago for trial, and it is wondered in Greece whether he has come to believe the tale himself.

ASK U. S. TO DROP FIGHT

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, March 18.—A group of persons in London, headed by Mrs. Eugene Hardman Earle, sister-in-law of Sir Henry Earle, calling themselves "friends of Insull in England," sent today to the American embassy in London an appeal which is a copy of a resolution passed at a meeting held here on Monday, March 13.

The appeal claims the former utilities magnate in his flight from Greece, and to have chartered the steamer Maletta for him. The appeal said:

"This meeting doesn't wish to criticize any action on the part of the United States government, and we have only met as friends of Insull to try to find a way to end this battle and save the situation. As in all wars, a truce or armistice is sometimes declared, and it is here suggested to ask the United States government if it would consider to arrange an armistice and to withdraw all indictments and charges against Samuel Insull for the time being, and his friends would bring pressure and persuasion to bear to get him to:

"1. Answer any questions and give the fullest information on any matter concerning the case or cases in point, for which they demand his extradition. For it is felt that if he were questioned and allowed to answer, it would satisfy not only the United States government but others involved with him, and would clear the air, and it would then be seen that he could not possibly be guilty of any wrong done

INSULL MAY REMAIN AT SEA A MONTH

Samuel Insull is aboard a small tramp steamer in his quest for a new refuge. The ship reported its position to the Greek government at periodic intervals yesterday. The vessel first reported it had skirted the island of Kythnos. Later the ship passed the islands of Milos and Thira, south of the Aegean sea.

Here is Insull's possible course after he crosses the Mediterranean. He may enter the Red sea and stop at Djibouti, the entrance to Abyssinia, or he may sail on, skirt Arabia, go up the Persian gulf and seek a refuge on the border between Persia and Iraq.

of a criminal nature to warrant this extradition.

"2. Further to persuade him, if his health permitted, to return to the United States, and assist in unravelling the tangle if officials would allow him to do so without let or hindrance, for it would not be possible for him to assist or even defend himself if placed under arrest.

"3. It is felt that he may not live long, and if he were to die without having given his own explanations it would be a calamity that could never be rectified, not only to others named with him, but to his stockholders. It is confidently believed that much good will be the outcome of such an arrangement, and it is strongly felt that it is due to the man to be given a chance if only as a slight recognition for all the good he has done, not only in the middle west but everywhere. London, France, and other places. A criminal does not go away empty handed. Insull put his all into a melting pot to try to save the situation for the stockholders. His wife sold all of her assets, and he is now only dependent on his friends in England, who have rallied beyond all expectations.

Thanks to Greece.

"4. Finally, this meeting wishes to express to the Greek government and people their warmest thanks for the very kind and human way that they have treated their friend while in their country."

Mrs. Earle told THE TRIBUNE correspondent that the events of the week had induced Insull's friends to present the resolution to the American embassy. Mrs. Earle is the wife of Hardman Arthur Earle, her presumptive son-in-law.

"1. Answer any questions and give the fullest information on any matter concerning the case or cases in point, for which they demand his extradition. For it is felt that if he were questioned and allowed to answer, it would satisfy not only the United States government but others involved with him, and would clear the air, and it would then be seen that he could not possibly be guilty of any wrong done

MARTIN INSULL GOES ON HUNGER STRIKE IN JAIL

Objects to Food; Ired by Ban on Cigarets.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

TORONTO, Ont., March 18.—Martin Insull, the one-time Chicago utilities magnate who is in the local jail while waiting for Cook county officers to come and take him back to Chicago to stand trial as a $300,000 embezzler, went on a hunger strike today.

Insull's abstinence was born of an aristocratic disdain for the quality of grub they dish out in Toronto's jail on the Den.

The prisoners in this jail call it "putting on the dog" when the piece of resistance is begun, which may convey some idea of Insull's motive in declining to eat. For breakfast today there was a thick, lumpy gruel, more respectably known as porridge, bread without butter, and tea without sugar or cream.

Serve Stew for Dinner.

For dinner there was a stew of carrots, potatoes, cabbage, and a dash of beef, liberally served with water. For supper the prisoners regaled themselves on rice, sans butter or sugar, and washed down their bread on more straight tea.

There was no opportunity to get into Insull's hospital ward for an interview, for such things are not done in this imperial dominion. The jail is ruled by a governor, and a deputy turnkey is a deputy governor, whose title is regarded as reverently by the local press as by the bearer himself.

But a reporter was permitted a glimpse through a dimly sized peephole, reminiscent of Chicago's speakeasies of the prohibition days, and there was Insull reclining on a cot, engrossed in a magazine. The prisoners are not permitted to have newspapers. He was in shirt sleeves and brown trousers. His gray hair was ruffled from restless talking and trembling.

Perhaps a prisoner, looking on Insull than the character of the food is the ban on tobacco, for he is an inveterate smoker of cigars. This is the only prison in Canada where tobacco is neither rationed nor tolerated.

Attends Sunday Services.

Three of the five other cots in the 13 by 24 foot room were occupied by attendance at church services, house breakers and petty thieves, who are placed there not for "special consideration," which the jail attendants admittedly accorded Insull, but because they require hospitalization.

For respite from such misery these things must have been a boon to Insull's former station in life, as he accepted the invitation to attend the Sunday afternoon services conducted in the jail chapel by a Salvation Army preacher.

Cautious observers were not permitted to go to the third floor where the strains of "Nearer My God to Thee," "Rock of Ages," and "Onward Christian Soldiers" could be heard. And later the organ boomed out "We Love the Place of God."

Wife Does Not Visit Him.

Mrs. Insull, who arrived here last night from Orillia, where she and her husband made their home after his flight from Chicago and pending his appeal to the Ontario Supreme court, did not visit him today. She was not registered at the York hotel, where she went last night. There were reports she had gone to Chicago.

Insull's only visitor today was J. C. McRuer, K. C., solicitor, not lawyer, if you please, and Mr. McRuer had nothing to say on leaving the jail.

Insull is said to be furious about the delay on the part of Cook county

U. S. KEEPS EYE ON INSULL; WAITS FOR HIM TO LAND

In making the next move in the international chess game with the elusive Samuel Insull—the federal government will be forced to wait until he lands in some foreign country. This statement was made yesterday by Dwight Green, United States district attorney.

Green said that no decision on the government's next step would be made until Insull steps off the Greek steamer in which he left Greece.

"If Insull lands in a country that has a treaty with the United States," said Green, "then extradition proceedings will be started at once. If he goes to a country that has no treaty then the state department will have to open up diplomatic negotiations in order to obtain him."

If the government nabbed Insull on the high seas it would amount to kidnapping, Green said.

It was learned tonight that the delay in getting Insull extradited was occasioned by the desire of his lawyer to make certain that he will be tried only upon those charges sustained by the Canadian court. Insull is named in three indictments, charging larceny, larceny by bailee, and embezzlement, involving the alleged abstraction of $500,000 from the treasury of Middle West Utilities company and the Mississippi Valley Utilities company, to protect his personal brokerage accounts.

The Canadian court sustained only one indictment in full and one other with respect to the abstraction of $20,000. Under the extradition treaty, Insull can be tried only upon the charges sustained.

It is believed here that this proceeding will delay Insull's departure until Thursday or Friday.

FIND U. S. UNDER NRA WORSE OFF THAN ENGLAND

Other Nations' Prosperity Is Gaining More.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 18.—[Special.]—Weighed in the balance of world prosperity, the NRA is found to be worthy of little, if any, credit in bolstering up the United States.

The NRA has been on the job for nine months, and most of industry has been placed under codes of fair competition. It is true Gen. Johnson has recently conceded that the system has many gross faults; he recently wrote a bill of particulars against his own administration listing 14 frailties and shortcomings, and announced the whole system was to be overhauled.

But on the whole, he and the President are said to believe that the NRA has gone far toward its objective of finding jobs for the idle of America.

Other Nations Better Off.

Therefore studies of official reports from foreign countries are held to be highly significant when they disclose that in many cases these other nations, without NRA, have made as good or better gains toward happier days than has the United States.

Many observers, and not a few business leaders, assert that the NRA instead of aiding American industry toward recovery has impeded and hampered it by imposing additional costs and permitting trust monopolies to be set up to fix prices.

For a clear cut example to demonstrate the effectiveness of methods of conservatism versus the methods of liberalism, economists have often taken England, which adheres steadfastly to economic orthodoxy, and the United States, under the New Deal.

Individualism Preserved.

England has no NRA, its industries are not regimented under codes. The long established rule of individual merit and individual opportunity is still preserved. England has now no public works program. Its government refused invitations to spend more millions or billions in such ventures, which were regarded as of dubious character because of what good they might do being wiped out by the added burdens of taxation.

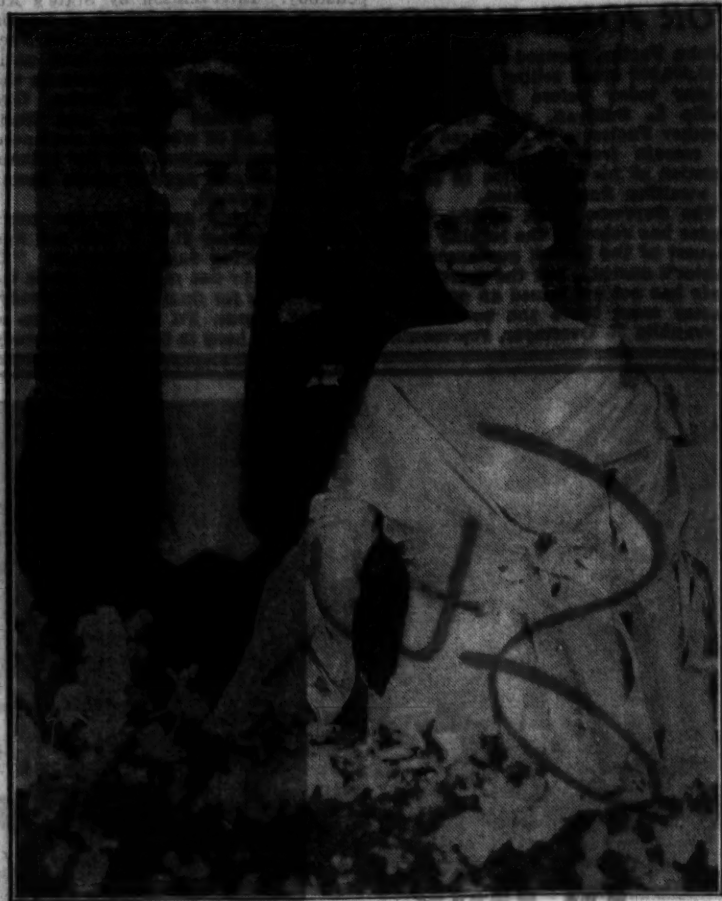

Only in direct relief of the destitute is there any similarity in the recovery measures adopted in the two countries. Long before the depression in this country Britain established a dole for the idle. In our distribution of government funds on direct relief and on the CWA and other forms of indirect relief we have the virtual equivalent of this system.

A study of unemployment figures in the United States and Great Britain yields the illuminating fact that in both countries the rate of idleness has dropped since March, 1933, in almost the same degree.

Figures Are Incomplete.

A recent announcement by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, gave figures on idleness in the United States. He said his figures were based in part on statistics issued by the United States department of labor, which does not compile comprehensive figures on general unemployment.

THEIR FILM JUDGED BEST

Mr. Green found that in March, 1933, the low ebb of American prosperity, when the New Deal began with a burst of enthusiasm which swept the country, the army of idle numbered 15,649,000. In December, 1933, he said, the number had shrunk to 10,328,000. The compilation does not include any workers employed under CWA, but does include those employed under the federal public works program.

His table did not carry the figure further, but it may be noted that there was a further drop in January, and in February, although figures have not yet been made available, there was a compensating rise.

England Shows Bigger Gain.

Thus, on the basis of the figures produced by Mr. Green, jobs have been found for 2,843,000 Americans.

In England the total of persons registered at unemployment exchanges on Feb. 19 was 2,513,000, which was 70,000 less than in January and 539,000 less than for February, 1933.

The American decline in idleness is reckoned at 21 per cent. That of England is figured at 19 per cent.

There is one school of thought in the United States, and a large one, which believes that American industry, left alone to recover under the fundamental traditions and laws of the United States, but given generous aid by loosening the strictures of credit, would work its way much faster out of the depression.

No one can determine accurately how many of the nearly 3,000,000 men and women who have received jobs in a year under the New Deal have them because of the NRA, or because the pendulum had swung its full length into the depression and was swinging back toward prosperity again. Whether more might have been back at their jobs if we had no NRA, or less, is impossible of reckoning.

England's experience is enlightening. In the field of foreign trade the United Kingdom also is much improved. England's imports in January aggregated $44,672,000 ($323,000,000) which was $11,000,000 greater than in January, 1933.

The exports of England were valued at $31,609,000 ($154,045,000) which was also considerably greater than in 1933 or 1932.

In the United States, the imports in January were $123,556,000, compared with $92,718,000 a year ago. American exports were $169,531,000 in January, 1934, and $118,559,000 in the same months of 1933.

Thus it is shown that England's import gain was 17 per cent as compared with a gain of 39 per cent in the United States. But it may be pointed out that the total volume of Britain's foreign trade was much greater than that of the United States, though its exports were lower.

For that matter, England's recovery from depression began much sooner than that of the United States, and that country has gone a great deal farther along the road toward better days, without help from any NRA, AAA, FWA, or CWA.

NEW SUSPECTS QUIZZED IN AUTO SWINDLE INQUIRY

Courtney's Staff Presses Fraud Inquiry.

Assistant state's attorneys were seeking an explanation yesterday of how Max Flander, 1749 North Spaulding avenue, a garage owner, members of his family, and his company figured in forty-seven claims for insurance on stolen or burned automobiles within recent months. This was one phase of State's Attorney Courtney's campaign against racket groups that have defrauded insurance companies by means of faked automobile thefts.

Flander was too ill to be questioned, but five of his brothers were interviewed by Courtney's assistants. According to Assistant State's Attorney Richard S. Austin, claims against insurance companies in the names of Flander, his brothers, and his firm, amounting to $5,600, were paid in recent months. It was reported that three stolen automobiles were found in Flander's garage on Saturday when 200 detectives, under orders of State's Attorney Courtney, arrested 800 persons for questioning. According to Mr. Courtney's information, 136 separate groups in Chicago have perpetrated swindles against insurance companies. Mr. Courtney said he expected 150 indictments as a result of his investigation.

Auto Rates Too High.

The prosecutor said that automobile theft insurance rates in Chicago are from two to ten times higher than they should be, in comparison to rates in other cities, largely as a result of these fraudulent claims for insurance.

Also under investigation yesterday were the auto insurance claims filed by the family of Albert S. Van De Houten, 4440 West Monroe street, owner of a tavern at 183 North Crawford avenue. Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan said there appeared to be some connection between the Van De Houten claims and those of the Flander family.

The Van De Houten family, the prosecutor said, filed claims four times for insurance on a stolen car—reported to be the same car in each instance. The car was recovered stripped, and a fifth claim is pending. Prosecutor Coghlan said his information from mechanics and garage employees was that cars brought into the Flander garage on Division street after being recovered with their accessories missing were mysteriously reequipped with missing parts believed by the investigators to have been the same as were reported stolen.

Traces Another Car.

What the state's attorney's men are trying to prove is that the alleged stripping of cars, which had been reported stolen and were later recovered, was the work of a group that would buy the stripped car as salvage from the insurance company, put back the missing parts, and send

700 CHICAGOANS ATTEND DINNER FOR GEN. HALLER

Seven hundred Chicagoans, many of them members of the Polish Army Veterans' Association of America, filed the Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel last night for a banquet in honor of Gen. Josef Haller, commander of the Polish forces in France during the world war. Brief talks were given by business and political leaders of Chicago praising the general's efforts on behalf of Polish war veterans. The speakers included Chancellor McCormick, Mayor Kelly, Charles S. Dewey, former financial adviser to the Polish government; Maj. Gen. Praston Brown, Rear Admiral W. F. Cluverius, Anthony Carneski, and Dr. E. J. Dymowski, consul general of Poland.

Gen. Haller, who arrived in Chicago Friday, is touring the United States as part of a campaign to raise funds for medical care and maintenance of more than 4,000 disabled veterans who served under him during the war.

THIRD DILLINGER GANGSTER GOES ON TRIAL TODAY

Lawyer Piquett Released from Lima Jail.

Lima, O., March 18.—(P)—John Dillinger's attorney left the confines of the city jail tonight as a third member of the Dillinger gang prepared for his first degree murder trial in a courtroom where two of his henchmen already have been condemned to the electric chair.

Louis P. Piquett of Chicago, seized last night by police as he arrived in Lima to criticize Allen county justice, was released to the custody of a local attorney, Francis W. Durkin, for appearance in police court tomorrow. No charge had been lodged against him. He had been held for investigation.

Ready to Produce Him.

"I shall produce Mr. Piquett in court for any charge he is obliged to face," announced Durkin. He added: "Mr. Piquett will not represent Russell Clark when Clark goes to trial in common pleas court tomorrow."

When Piquett arrived yesterday he observed to police that Allen county had sent two innocent men—Charles Mackley and Harry Pierpont—back to their cells facing the electric chair. He also said he wanted to represent Clark in court.

Clark, the third and last member of the Dillinger gang to go to trial on a charge of slaying Sheriff Jess Sarber during the jail break here last October which won the desperado his freedom, prepared to face a jury almost coincident with the arrival of Captain Matt Leach of the Indiana state police.

Seized With Woman.

Piquett was picked up on the street here with a woman. He boasted of being Dillinger's attorney at Crown Point and said that Dillinger had told him he would escape from Crown Point with a wooden gun.

"I told him he was nuts," Piquett said.

Piquett told Gen. Bush that Mrs. May Clark of Detroit, mother of the Dillinger gangster, had asked him to come to Lima and represent her son. Piquett further described himself as "the hottest man in Chicago," presumably because of the fact he represented Dillinger.

Prosecutor Botkin quoted Piquett as saying, "You've been very successful. You've sent two innocent men to the electric chair." Concerning Dillinger, the lawyer was quoted as saying, "He's a smart guy. He wouldn't come down here. He knows the place is barricaded. He took a 'run-out powder' on me."

Leach Keeps Still Tongue.

Capt. Matt Leach of the Indiana state police was a visitor today but refused to say what had brought him to Lima. He has devoted himself almost exclusively to Dillinger and members of his gang for months. Whether the search for the jail breaker was the cause of his sudden presence here he declined to say. He came here from Port Huron, Mich., where he had taken part in the search for the desperado.

FLYERS TO HUNT FOR DINOSAURS IN BAD LANDS

New York, March 18.—(P)—An expedition to hunt for dinosaurs that roamed the Big Horn bad lands of Montana, Wyoming, and South Dakota 12,000,000 years ago will be undertaken this summer by the American Museum of Natural History.

F. Trubee Davison, president of the museum, announced tonight that the expedition, financed by Harry Sinclair, oil operator, will take the field in June, under the leadership of Dr. Barnum Brown, curator of fossil reptiles.

In addition to making an aerial survey of fossil regions, the expedition will excavate two skeletons of prehistoric giants which were found in 1922 and partly uncovered in 1932.

HAYES LASHES SPENDING SPREE ON EXPERIMENTS

Washington, D. C., March 18.—(Special.)—Fifty per cent more money has been spent by the United States in one year on experiments than has gone for disabled veterans, widows, and orphans of all America's wars for the last sixteen years. This was the statement of Edward A. Hayes, national commander of the American Legion, in the third annual Legion broadcast tonight. It was the fifteenth anniversary of the Legion's foundation.

He asserted warmly that the veterans of his group constitute a "cohesive body, a bulwark supporting representative government and political liberty." He pointed out that in every other country which participated in the world war rioting and attempts to overthrow the government have been led by war veterans, while in this country the veterans undertook "a program of education in support of our institutions of government." He accused congress of forgetting its constitutional duty in the expenditure of such staggering sums on experiments.

In support of the Legion's program for veterans' compensation, he said that the cost had been misrepresented by more than $60 million dollars. Whereas statements have been made that the cost of the veterans' legislation in the independent offices supply bill would total $54 millions, he asserted the total would not be more than $45 million dollars.

OCEAN STORMS OFF SPAIN KILL 4; SHIPS WRECKED

MADRID, March 18.—(P)—Terrible storms swept the Atlantic coast today, causing at least four deaths and much destruction. Boats scurried for safety, but a number of fishing craft were destroyed. Four persons drowned in a crew of five when the fishing boat, Ayonote, was dashed to pieces near Cristina island.

Waves pounding the shore at the town of Cangas Demorazo destroyed many homes fringing the ocean. The fishing steamer San Juan was destroyed off Santander, but her crew was saved. Nearly all Asturian ports were closed.

A British squadron of 137 ships, engaged in Atlantic maneuvers, was in the harbor at Algeiras, forced there by the storm. Reports said several sailors and two officers of the squadron had been washed overboard.

HIDDEN FORTUNE OF SLAIN TOUHY HOODLUM HUNTED

A search for the $100,000 that the slain gangster, Charles (Ice Wagon) Connors, is believed to have amassed during his 33 years of crime will begin today when Jack Rubens, chief investigator for the public administrator, is scheduled to make a canvass of banks in a town in northern Indiana.

The gray haired mail bandit, a member of the Touhy gang who helped to kidnap John Factor, was found shot to death in the vicinity of 107th street and Archer avenue last Tuesday. Investigator Rubens will show officials of the banks and safety deposit vaults photographs of Connors, and ask whether they recognize him as a depositor. The names of the Indiana town and one in Wisconsin, where Connors may have hidden his cash, are being withheld.

If the first town does not yield any of Connors' savings Mr. Rubens will go to Indianapolis and make a similar search. If he is still unsuccessful, he will travel to Wisconsin. From there, unless the money is located, the search will turn to Philadelphia, the eastern headquarters of the slain Touhy gangster.

Calls Connors Tightwad.

"Connors was a tightwad," the investigator said. "We are sure that he put away most of his gains."

Mr. Rubens pointed out that Connors probably received a large share of the $105,000 taken in the robbery of a mail truck at Gladstone, N. C., last November, for which he was under indictment with three other Touhy gangsters. His share of the Factor ransom of $70,000 was estimated at $15,000.

The information received at the public administrator's office is that Connors, whenever he needed money while in Chicago, would travel to the northern Indiana town. He denied knowing where the funds were cached.

Gives Clue in Slaying.

Costner, who is a former member of the Touhy gang, however, furnished an additional motive why Connors might have been killed by his erstwhile pals. It was Connors' stupidity, or the fact that he was drunk, that brought about the arrest in Baltimore of Costner and Banghart on Feb. 11, the state's witness told.

"Connors was with us after the Charlotte job," Costner related. "We were all living on the second floor of a nice apartment in a residential section of Baltimore. Connors went to a Ford agency to buy a new car that day, and he was stewed. The salesman got suspicious and asked him for references. He gave him his address and said he had plenty of references and papers at his flat. When he went out the salesman told the police, and they came right up and got us."

This account differed from the first story of the arrests. Previously it had been said that Baltimore policemen became suspicious when they saw a car belonging to the fugitives parked without lights in front of the apartment building.

DECISION TODAY ON JAIL OR BOND FOR JOHN FACTOR

John Factor, accused in England of a $7,000,000 stock selling swindle, will appear today before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, who will decide whether Factor is to be placed in jail or remain free on bond while the question of his extradition to London is awaiting final decision.

The Supreme court of the United States has ruled on the legality of the request of the British government for Factor's custody, but the secretary of state has not yet issued an order that Factor must leave the country.

Franklin R. Overmyer, representing the British crown, announced that he would ask Judge Sullivan today to order that Factor be taken into custody. Intervention by State's Attorney Courtney in behalf of Factor is expected on the ground that Factor's presence is required here until the state Supreme court passes on the convictions of Roger Touhy, Gus Schaefer, Albert Kator, and Basil Banghart, all of whom were sentenced to 99 years imprisonment for kidnapping Factor, and against whom Factor testified in court.

"I can only appeal to the court with a promise that I will not run away," Factor said yesterday. "If they want to put me in jail while we are waiting for final action I'm ready, but, of course, I'd rather not go to jail. I have been in the virtual custody of the state's attorney ever since I identified the Touhy gangsters as my kidnapers. Before that I was in custody of Deputy United States marshals at my hotel."

State's Attorney Courtney has said he wants Factor to remain here pending a review of the kidnapping convictions, but yesterday he could not be reached on the subject of whether he would ask that Factor be allowed to remain free.

DEMOCRATS HAIL THEIR RECORD AT CAMPAIGN RALLY

2,000 Hear Party Chiefs at Theater.

The record of Democracy in administering public affairs locally and nationally was brought out for inspection yesterday by four speakers at a rally held in the Auditorium theater to open the Democratic campaign in Illinois for the April 10 primary. Some 2,000 members of the party in power approved the record in frequent applause.

County Recorder Clayton F. Smith, who presided; Mayor Kelly, and State's Attorney Courtney dwelt particularly upon the results obtained by local Democratic officeholders in reducing expenditures and waging war on crime. The efforts of President Roosevelt to propel the nation out of the depression were enlarged upon by United States Senators Patrick A. McCarran of Nevada and William H. Dieterich of Illinois.

Tribute to the Fair.

Politics, however, was not the sole topic chosen by the speakers. Each gave tribute to the part played by Chicago's A Century of Progress last year in stimulating business and giving encouragement in a trying period. The mayor urged all Democrats to aid in promoting attendance at the Fair this summer.

"We are not here to talk politics alone," said Mayor Kelly. "The Democratic organization has no contest in the primary, but it has a duty to the city and to the nation to perform, and that is to stimulate business in Chicago and through our efforts in that direction to promote prosperity in the United States."

"In going through the precincts each one of us should boast the World's Fair. We should urge Chicagoans to attend the Fair early, so that throughout the country every one will know that we are interested and want to visit the city and the exposition. We should ask our people to write their friends about the Fair. We will be adding the business men who, at my suggestion, have organized a committee to promote the Fair. This committee will send $500,000 in advertising the Fair and the city."

Mayor Asks Large Vote.

A large Democratic vote at the primary was requested by the mayor to show confidence in and to encourage President Roosevelt and congress. In referring to the local situation he mentioned the reduction in tax bills resulting from lower tax levies by the city, schools, and county; the savings last year of over $3,000,000 in the city's appropriations, the drives on hoodlums and racketeers, and the statistics that place Chicago as one of the healthiest cities in the world.

Enlarging upon the subject of crime, State's Attorney Courtney said that because of the cooperation of the police department Chicago today is the leading city in the world in crime fighting activities. The state's attorney's office, he stated, leads the world in the number of convictions obtained for kidnapping and for racketeering.

"Public officeholders," said Mr. Courtney, "should be leaders in their respective fields to aid President Roosevelt. Locally, we can point with pride to the achievements of Gov. Henry Horner and Mayor Kelly."

Warns Against "Whispers."

Chicago was given credit for setting the wheels of commerce in motion last year by Senator McCarran. He told the party members that Democrats must continue to hold the confidence

RABBI WISE IS GIVEN A PURSE WITH $22,000 ON SIXTIETH BIRTHDAY

New York, March 18.—(AP)—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, honored today by Christians and Jews alike on his sixtieth birthday, was handed a purse containing $22,000 at the conclusion of the morning service at Free synagogue, which he founded.

Accepting this gift from the members of the congregation and other friends, Dr. Wise announced that he would use the money to further the work of the American Palestine campaign, the Hebrew university in Jerusalem and other Jewish institutions.

Afterward at a luncheon at the Biltmore, attended by 1,000 men and women, Dr. Wise heard himself referred to as "the greatest Jewish leader in America," a "leading civic leader," a "champion of the oppressed," "the friend of forward causes" and "fearless protagonist for justice."

The Rev. Dr. William H. Finckshirer of Knesseth Israel congregation, Philadelphia, referred to him as "prophetic teacher." To Eddie Cantor he was "New York's best cop."

of the masses, and warned them against "whispering" that the President seeks to set himself up as a dictator," which, he said, are intended to harm the recovery program and disrupt the party.

Senator Dieterich also gave praise to the leadership that went ahead with the 1933 exposition, despite the country's condition, and explained his vote on the St. Lawrence waterway treaty.

Martin A. Brennan of Bloomington, candidate for renomination as congressman at large, was introduced to the audience. Sitting on the stage behind the speakers were a large number of Democratic office holders.

1,396,151 LEFT ON POLL BOOKS AFTER REVISION

423,398 Names Erased by Election Board.

Chicago's registered vote was announced last night as 1,396,151 by John R. Bush, chief clerk of the board of election commissioners, following completion of a revision of the poll books. The revision was the first to be made in two years, and it reduced the number of persons eligible to vote at the April 10 primary to 1,396,151 less than the registration total for the presidential election in November, 1932.

Since that election, when 1,499,147 persons were eligible to vote, additional registrations were made at the election board office for intermediate elections, which brought the number of names written on the poll books to 1,809,264. A general registration last Tuesday brought the total to 1,809,658. In the revision 423,398 names were erased.

Registration by Wards.

The large number of erasures was credited to the campaign of County Judge Jancsó to get dead names off the books. Figures showing by wards the total registration after last Tuesday's registration, the number of erasures and the final revised total are as follows:

NEGRO RIVAL ATTACKS REP. DE PRIEST'S FIGHT ON CAPITAL RACE BAN

The action of Congressman Oscar De Priest, Chicago Negro, in sponsoring the fight in Washington, D. C., against the house of representatives restaurant's ban on members of his race was denounced yesterday by Edgar G. Brown, colored, Democratic candidate for congress. Speaking before a mass meeting at 113 East 85th place, Brown termed De Priest's acts an attempt to capitalize on the formation of racial prejudice in the forthcoming election, in which he will be a candidate for reelection.

"He is clowning before the nation for his own political fence building," Brown declared. "Such insouciance damages as his feigned heat over the restaurant's discrimination, which he never protested before during all the years it has been practiced, brands it at this late date as sheer tomfoolery calculated to put him in the hero role just before the election, after his spineless and colorless record of five years."

The seven suburbs under the jurisdiction of the election board are: Chicago Heights, 8,483; Cicero, 30,555; Berwyn, 23,838; Summit, 2,130; Stickney, 1,035; Morton Grove, 887, and Evergreen Park, 840.

JUDGE HELANDER GIVEN BAR'S O. K. FOR RE-ELECTION

Municipal Judge William E. Helander, whose name was omitted inadvertently in the account in Sunday's issue of The Tribune of the Chicago Bar association's report on court candidates, was labeled in that report as "well qualified for the office." Judge Helander, a Republican, has served two terms in the court, being elected the first time in 1932. He is seeking reelection. The report also stated that his service as a judge for the last eleven years has been creditable.

Of William J. Gross, who is running for the Republican nomination in the state assembly, being elected the first time in 1932. He is seeking reelection. The report also stated that his service as a judge for the last eleven years has been creditable.

POLITICIANS MOST HONEST OF PEOPLE, FARLEY DECLARES

New York, March 18.—(AP)—In twenty years, Postmaster General James A. Farley said today, he has found politicians more honest and truthful than members of any other profession. "You have to tell the truth or they soon tag you if you don't," he told the Regis High School Alumni association at breakfast.

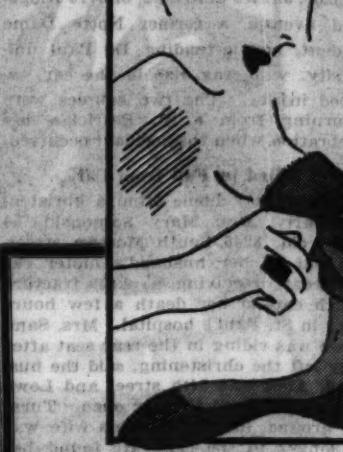

He urged the members of the association to consider a career of politics and told them the New York state assembly was the greatest training ground in the world.

"This is the finest legislative body I have ever seen," he said. "There is an opportunity there for a young fellow to secure an invaluable education in politics and meet the finest group of fellows to be found."

SON OF STANDARD OIL OFFICIAL DIES OF AUTO INJURIES

Woman Killed in Fall Out of Husband's Car.

Brute Graham, 20 years old, a Junior at Notre Dame university, died in St. Luke's hospital last night of injuries suffered early yesterday when he crashed his automobile into a pole in the outer drive at 7th street. He was a son of Felix T. Graham, 2800 East 7th street, secretary of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

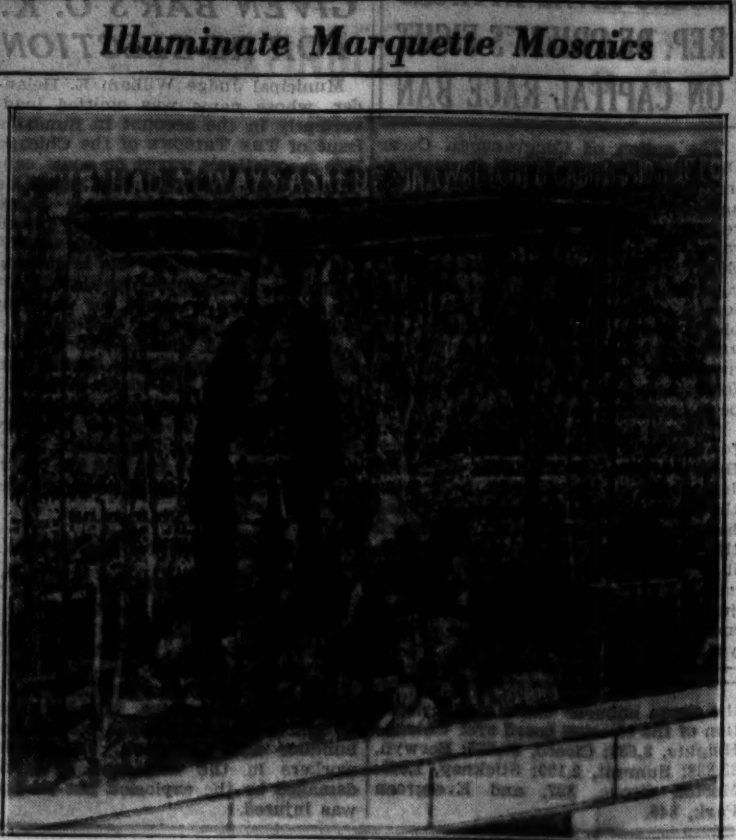

Two young women who were in the car and who were injured were recovering at the hospital last night. They are Miss Catherine Boyle, 19 years old, 4024 West 24th place, and Miss Marian McClelland, also 19, of 7809 Kingston avenue. James Court, 22, of 6716 Ridgeland avenue, a former Notre Dame student, now attending De Paul university, who was also in the car, escaped injury. The couple were returning from a St. Patrick's day celebration when the accident occurred.

Killed in Fall from Car.
On her way home from a christening party, Mrs. Mary Samonski, 54 years old, 8246 South Morgan street, fell out of her husband's motor car yesterday, receiving a skull fracture which caused her death a few hours later in St. Paul's hospital. Mrs. Samonski was riding in the rear seat after they left the christening, said the husband, Alex. At 34th street and Lowe avenue he heard the door open. Turning around, he saw that his wife was no longer in the car. He found her lying on the street a block back.

Year's Total 263.
The deaths of young Graham, Mrs. Samonski, and three others raised the Cook county auto toll since Jan. 1 to 263. The other victims:
Walter Siedlak, 5 years old, 563 North Mozart street. Killed by the automobile of a hit and run driver as he played in the street in front of his home.

John Ponatus, 40 years old, 2238 West 47th street. Died in the South Town hospital of injuries incurred when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver at 47th street and Oakley boulevard.

Lawrence Guss, 75 years old, 4719 South Lincoln street. Died in the South Town hospital last night, a few hours after being injured at 47th and Wood streets by a taxicab driven by William Wirgin, 35, of 5426 South Marshfield avenue.

Part of mosaic in Marquette building here, showing the death of Father Marquette. Elsewhere in the rotunda the dramatic story of the discovery of the upper Mississippi river is illustrated. A special lighting system is being installed to illuminate the mosaics and famous bronze reliefs.

HOLD WOUNDED MAN AS SUSPECT IN TWO HOLDUPS

Joseph Wagner, 35 years old, 4525 North Western avenue, suffering from a gunshot wound in the abdomen, was under police guard at the Garfield Park hospital last night as an alleged bandit. Police said he was identified by Mrs. Lucille Vischulis, owner of the Lucille beauty shop, 1572 Milwaukee avenue, as one of two men who stole $250 from her store Saturday night, including 40 cents from her 4-year-old son, Albert. He was also identified, police said, by Raymond Kurtzrock, a street car supervisor, as the man whom Kurtzrock disarmed and fired upon after the robbery of the Ritter furniture store at 1651 Chicago avenue shortly after the beauty shop holdup.

Civil Guards Kill Notorious Bandit in Spanish Hills

MADRID, March 18.—(AP)—The notorious and long sought bandit, Paseo Largo, has been killed in his mountain retreat by civil guards, the government was advised today by the civil governor of Malaga. Cornered after a hunt of many months, Largo was slain when he attempted to shoot his way to safety.

History in Art

Special lighting effects now being installed will be flashed on this week in the rotunda of the Marquette building at 140 South Dearborn street, enhancing the beauty of the mosaics and bronze reliefs which tell the story of Father Marquette's discovery of the upper Mississippi river. Over the entrance doors on Dearborn street are three reliefs by Herman A. MacNeill, illustrating the launching of their canoe on the headwaters of the Wisconsin river by Marquette and Joliet, Marquette's arrival at the Chicago river, and his burial at St. Ignace, Mich., mission. Within the rotunda, over each elevator landing on the first and balcony floors, are twenty-two bronze portraits of French and Indian characters known to Marquette. These are by Edward Kemeys. Mosaics on the face of the balcony portray the departure of the two explorers from St. Ignace on their first mission. They were designed by J. A. Holzer and executed by Tiffany of New York.

Hattiesburg, Miss., March 18.—(AP)—The kitchen, dining hall, and heating plant of the Mississippi Woman's college were destroyed by fire today with loss estimated at $20,000. Nineteen girls occupying a dormitory above the dining hall left the building uninjured.

PARIS—GAMBLING OWNERS SEIZED IN MURDER MYSTERY

PARIS, March 18.—(AP)—A new sensation in the St. Germain murder mystery kept alive national excitement over the Stavisky affair today, continuing to feed popular expressions of political indignation. Two operators of a Paris gambling club, Eugene Tribut and Adrien Cest, were arrested and Tribut's two automobiles were seized. They were charged with receiving money from Stavisky or from one of his associates. Police sought to establish the movements of the two machines on the night Judge Albert Prince was murdered at Dijon. The gambling club was supposed to be one of Stavisky's manifold enterprises. In the midst of growing ramifications of the Stavisky affair, a parliamentary committee tomorrow will take a retrospective look at the worst of turmoil Stavisky stirred up by privately viewing censored motion pictures of the February rioting in which seventeen were killed.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH AFTER KEROSENE BLAST

Mrs. Catherine Riordan, 35 years old, 4324 South Richmond street, was fatally burned in her home yesterday when her clothes were ignited in an explosion as she was pouring kerosene in a kitchen coal stove. In a desperate effort to extinguish the flames, she ran screaming to the bedroom and leaped into bed beside her sleeping husband, Daniel, and their 16-month-old baby, Donald. The bed clothing was set ablaze and Riordan and the baby so severely burned that little hope was held for their recovery. The three victims were taken to Holy Cross hospital, where Mrs. Riordan died several hours after the fire. Three other children were led to safety by Mrs. Riordan's sister, Rita McMahon, 11 years old, 4530 Whipple street, who was in the home waiting to take some of the children to Sunday school. Chief James McCready of the Chicago Heights fire department, was injured yesterday while directing effort to control a fire in the suburb.

ARMY RESUMES AIR MAIL JOB ON 'SAFE' SCHEDULES

Refitted War Planes Fly
After 8 Day Lapse.

The United States army resumed the carrying of air mail early today. The first mail plane to leave here in a week took off at 4 a. m. for Cleveland, with Lieut. McGuire at the controls. At 6 a. m. a plane left with 600 pounds of mail was scheduled to take off for Omaha, Cheyenne, and the west coast. The first mail from New York and other eastern cities was due here at 5:30 a. m. Weather reports last night were said to be favorable to the army's carrying out its schedule. Pilots and mechanics here last night made all necessary preparations for resumption of the service. Planes and equipment have been carefully overhauled and inspected, in compliance with President Roosevelt's order that the increasing death toll in the army air corps be stopped. Eleven men directly connected with the army air mail delivery have been killed since the cancellation of commercial air mail contracts by the government a month ago.

"Now Up to Flyers."
Final official preparations for the resumption of the service were completed in Washington as postoffice department officials, who have worked long hours on week days and Sundays in recent weeks, wound up their work and announced that the problem is now away from the capital and directly in the cockpit of the army planes.

Under the new setup the army will cover about 40 per cent of the route mileage formerly flown by the commercial lines, according to Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the air corps. Chicago will be the center of air mail service to the Atlantic and west coasts, northwest to St. Paul and south to Dallas via St. Louis. Gen. Foulois, who ordered the resumption of air mail service, while on an inspection trip here Saturday departed for St. Louis in a plane yesterday morning in continuation of his trip.

Finds "All in Readiness."
The air corps chief extended his best wishes to mail pilots just before he stepped into his south bound plane. He complimented the proficiency of ground crews in reconditioning and remodeling bombing, scout, and observation planes into what he termed first class mail carriers. He announced that he was satisfied that "everything is in readiness to resume operations," basing this opinion on his recent tour of inspection over the eastern and central zones and a conference here with Lieut. Col. Hickham, commander of the central zone.

Blind and night flying equipment has been installed in all planes to be used in the mail service during the past week, and additional radio facilities have been placed in planes on transcontinental routes. Both transmitting and receiving equipment will be placed in all other planes as soon as possible, it was said.

Add 16 More Pilots.
Sixteen commercial pilots have been added to the flying personnel of the Chicago unit of the air mail service and are being schooled in the use of army planes. Lieut. Hickham revealed most of the new men, he said, are reserve army officers who applied for duty after losing their jobs with the commercial lines after the government's cancellation of all contracts. "The commercial flyers," Lieut. Hickham said, "probably will have difficulty adjusting themselves to army discipline, but only for a short time. I predict that the carrying of air mail will eventually go back to the commercial lines. Right now the United States is without an air force. All our pilots are busy with the mails. The present set-up can't be permanent."

Col. Hickham, however, frankly predicted yesterday that there will be additional casualties among the army air mail flyers. "We have the best pilots in the world," he declared, "but after all we're army men, not postmen," he said. The army welcomed the opportunity to be of service. He added that the army expected one fatality for every 3,000 hours of flying.

Routes on which service will be resumed today in other parts of the country are: Boston to New York, New York to Jacksonville, Salt Lake City to San Diego, Seattle and Portland, and Cheyenne to Denver. The number of routes have been reduced from 18 to eight as compared with 10 days ago.

SECOND STRIKE OF N. Y. TAXICABS GAINS HEADWAY

New York, March 18.—[Special.]—Taxicab service throughout the city was badly crippled today as the new taxi strike—the second within sixty days—began to function more fully. Police estimated that considerably less than half of the 12,000 cabs normally clogging the streets were in operation and that the vast majority of those in service classified as "independents," which are not affected by the union walkout order. The owners were said to have conceded that not more than 5,000 machines were running. The fleets of the three major companies affected by the strike appeared to be almost entirely out of commission.

A conference of company officials and union heads has been called for tomorrow afternoon in an effort to effect an agreement.

WIDOW OF SLAIN AD EXECUTIVE TO BE QUIZZED IN N. Y.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Regan and Lieut. Otto Erlanson, head of the police homicide bureau, yesterday were on their way to New York to question Mrs. Belle Daiches concerning the death of her husband, Eli Daiches, wealthy advertising agency president, whose slaying by machine gun assassins on March 3 has baffled all efforts at solution. Mrs. Daiches was in Palestine when the mysterious murder occurred. She sailed for home as soon as she received word of her husband's death and now is aboard the S. S. Roma in quarantine in the New York harbor. Mrs. Daiches will return to the city in time to attend the next session of the inquest set for March 23.

NAVY CONTINUES BUYING BY PLAN RULED ILLEGAL

Cite $2,880,000 Plane Purchases.

Washington, D. C., March 18.—[AP.]—New evidence to show that the navy has continued to buy airplanes through a method held illegal by its own judge advocate general was presented today to congressional investigators. Such purchases were declared to exceed $2,880,000. Decisions of the navy judge advocate general questioning the navy's procurement methods are understood to figure prominently in a minority report to be filed this week by Representative McFarlane (Dem., Tex.) of the house naval subcommittee that has just completed a study of navy airplane purchases.

The majority of the committee already has approved a report finding no fault with and recommending no change in the navy's present procurement methods.

Around 75 per cent of the navy's aircraft purchases, the controller general has informed investigators, were made without competition, under provisions of the 1924 air defense act.

Art League Asks Mayor to Set Anti-Smoke Week

The Municipal Art League, through its president, Paul Schulze, has requested Mayor Kelly to set aside the week of April 23 as Anti-Smoke week, a period in which public opinion may be crystallized regarding the ill effects of smoke. Mr. Schulze's organization has been interested in smoke abatement for 34 years, and this winter it renewed its active campaign concerning the proper methods of smoke inspection and abatement. The mayor was asked, in addition, to name a committee of interested citizens to plan a program for the proposed Anti-Smoke week.

GERMANY RAISES FUND TO PROMOTE SPORT OF FLYING

Plea Points to "Loophole" in Versailles Treaty.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, March 18.—A "loophole" in the Versailles treaty was stressed in leaflets distributed from house to house in Berlin today. The tract urged the public to donate cash to promote the sport of flying.

Under the treaty public funds are not permitted to be used to stimulate aviation, but the leaflet points out that the treaty does not refer to private initiative, and adds:

"We are unable to construct military planes, but the development of the sport of flying and training German people as flyers is entirely dependent upon ourselves and our readiness to make sacrifices."

Goering Demands Air Force.

The demand for a German air force was also emphasized by Gen. Hermann Goering, premier of Prussia, and Reichminister of aviation, in speaking at a flying exhibition at the Essen airport today. Goering declared that Germany can enjoy no security, no peace, no equality until she is granted the right to defend herself in the air. "This demand cannot be altered, the air minister proclaimed."

"If other countries are permitted the heaviest weapons of attack in the air, Germany at least must be given the right of defense," he said. "If the remainder of the world has a good conscience—if it does not wish to attack Germany—then it cannot refuse to fulfill the German demand. However, so long as Germany is prohibited from having military planes, she can only cultivate the spirit of the old air corps with small sport machines."

The foreign office's interpretation of yesterday's German note to France on arms is that unless the powers come to a disarmament agreement in the very near future, Germany will not be tied down by the military restrictions imposed upon her by the Versailles treaty. This does not mean Germany will increase the size of her army by any great figure, but she will continue to maintain an army of long term enlistments, said a foreign office spokesman.

A Warning to France.

BERLIN, March 18.—(P)—If France rejects Germany's arms reply, said the newspaper Boersen Zeitung today, Germany must act "to insure her most primitive needs of self-defense."

"France," the paper said, "must now show its true colors. Its era of evasion and sabotage has come to an end. We expect France to accept Germany's minimum proposal."

"If such a reply is not forthcoming, or if France bluntly refuses, then there remains only—if without France's approval—to do what Germany's honor demands and what England and Italy consider justified."

LANDING OF FIRST IRISH ARGENTINE SETTLERS CELEBRATED BY 20,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LUJAN, Argentina, March 18.—The Rev. Fr. "Paddy" Molloy, "the fighting parson from Chicago," led an army of 20,000 Irish-Argentines to the cathedral here today to celebrate the centenary of the landing of the first Irish settlers in Argentina. A choir of 150 voices, accompanied by 20 harps, sang Gaelic hymns. Sermons were delivered in the Gaelic, Spanish, and English languages.

While many Irishmen came to Argentina before 1834, including Admiral Brown, who became commander of the Argentine navy, and Gen. O'Higgins, the first Irish settlers to arrive were Sean Sheridan and 23 companions. They started sheep farming in the province of Buenos Aires in 1834. Later they were joined by many more. The descendants of some of the settlers acquired great wealth in land and live stock and today Irish names are common in the list of big landed proprietors.

Argentines of Irish descent are estimated to number 70,000. It has been said that only about 70 possess no trace of their ancestral brogue. The development of sheep farming in its early days in Argentina was almost entirely due to the efforts of Irish settlers. Later successful Irishmen began to breed cattle on their huge estates.

Ship Battered by 100 Mile Gale Reaches English Port

[Copyright 1934 by The New York Times.]

LONDON, March 18.—The French liner Lafayette came into Plymouth harbor slightly battered today in the aftermath of a 100 mile gale yesterday. The sea was so mountainous that the 25,000 ton liner wallowed at an angle of 40 degrees and 70 foot waves broke over the top deck. The captain had to heave to for five hours during the height of the storm. One passenger, F. T. Moses of Providence, R. I., suffered a broken arm while trying to close a porthole.

Find Body of Missing Man Under Ice in Fox Lake

Under two inches of ice the body of Peter Gohrke, 43 years old, a CWA worker, was found in Fox Lake yesterday, definitely solving the mystery of his disappearance on Jan. 25. Gohrke, who lived at Fox Lake, visited friends on the shore of the lake and started home walking across the ice at 2 o'clock in the morning. He was not heard from again. A coroner's jury last night decided that in the heavy fog Gohrke failed to see a hole in the ice and plunged to his death accidentally.

Reveals Program to Give

signed yesterday with Austria and Hungary, he said: "This does not exclude other nations. Let us now leave some words and enter some deeds."

"Reform of the league of nations [demanded by Mussolini] has been almost universally accepted," he asserted, "and will be made when disarmament is settled."

"Heavily armed states will not now disarm. An Italian memorandum states the problem in all of its reality. If nations will not disarm they cannot logically oppose the parity of arms required by Germany. They cannot pretend to disarm people like the Germans."

"Europe has need of mutual comprehension or it is heading for its twilight."

In view of the general situation Italy could not reduce its military expenditure, the dictator said, and Italy, to carry out its internal program, must be strong. She will not attack, he said, but will be "ready for any eventuality."

"Peace will be secured by friendly relations between Italy and other people, but also by our fortified frontier, our military means and organic unity, our arms."

Security also will be dependent on the birth rate, he added, terming as idiotic the idea of an increase in population means misery.

"Vanity means death to any nation," he said.

The premier concluded his speech with a stirring appeal to his followers to retain their faith and enthusiasm, saying "the creed of the Bourgeois is egotism, while that of Fascism is heroism."

An ovation lasting many minutes, during which the assembly sang the Fascist hymn, followed his speech.

HITLER RETURNS SPIRIT TO ARMY, CHIEF DECLARES

BERLIN, March 18.—(P)—Lieut. Gen. Werner von Blomberg, commander of the First Reichswehr division, told army men today that the spirit of the old imperial army has been resurrected in the reichswehr since the advent of Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Speaking to old army regulars at a huge meeting in the Sportpalast, he said: "The spirit of true comradeship that permeated Germany world war forces, the spirit of sacrifice and of royalty, has risen again to become a living force among our people."

That spirit, he said, embodied by President Paul von Hindenburg and Chancellor Hitler, had conquered everything non-German.

AUSTRIANS HAIL 3 NATION PACT AS DAWN OF NEW DAY

Eye Reaction of the Little Entente Countries.

VIENNA, March 18.—(AP)—The three way Italo-Austro-Hungarian pact which Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss signed at Rome on behalf of his country found a warm welcome at home today—at least in Austrian newspapers.

The Austrian press hailed the agreement as an example for other countries and all Europe.

Three points were amplified in today's accounts.

1. The immediate practical benefit for Austria.

2. The retention of complete independence for all signers.

3. The fact that the pact is open to other signers.

Fate Depends on Nonsigners.

The semi-official Reichspost said the fate of the new order established by Premier Mussolini, Premier Goemboos of Hungary, and Dollfuss "will depend very much on the effect the agreement has on the most closely interested nonsigners, the little entente and Germany."

It pointed to the friendly attitude of Czechoslovakia and the doubtful position of Yugoslavia and Rumania, and added that Germany has an opportunity to clear up the central European position without a loss of prestige.

It also declared that Mussolini was "the first of all European statesmen to draw new consequences from old truths, but it is not enough to affirm Austrian independence. She must be given opportunity to live and do business with her own power."

Sees Pact as Milestone.

The official Wiener Zeitung called the pact a milestone in European history.

The negotiations at Rome, the paper said, "brought more than was expected, not only for Austria, Hungary, and Italy, but for all Europe. They represented the first great attempt at a positive struggle with the necessity of the times, an epochal fact that certainly will have the greatest effect on all the world."

The paper said the agreement "contains an invitation to all European states to work with Austria, Hungary and Italy in the spirit of the new pact for a complete rebuilding of Europe."

The Neue Freie Presse amplified a provision of the pact for consultation between the three powers and access to the Adriatic sea for Austria. It offered to the three member countries advice from Goethe, the German philosopher: "If you hope to receive, then give."

Goemboos Returns to Hungary.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 18.—Premier Julius Goemboos returned to the capital from Rome today and from a platform at the railway station gave a speech in which he made indirect reference to Hungarian ambitions for territorial revision of the Trianon treaty.

"We can achieve great things in the Carpathians if we maintain our unity," said the premier.

CHAUFFEUR DIES OF INJURIES.

Clifford H. Todd, 35 years old, 10925 South State street, a chauffeur, died yesterday in the Physicians and Surgeons hospital of injuries incurred Friday night when he was struck by a South State street car at 30th street.

They may take the obvious precautions, such as avoiding crowds, bundling up and wearing rubbers outdoors. But are they doing anything to build up their inner forces? What are they doing to increase their resistance?

People should not wait until after they are sick to think about their physical condition. The time for them to build up a reserve is while they are well!

And there is a convenient, pleasant way to do this. By using a special resistance-builder every day—Squibb Adex tablets.

Squibb Adex tablets offer the important factors which help build up good general resistance—Vitamin A and D. These are the vitamins for which so many physicians recommend halibut and cod-liver oils with Viosterol.

But people who do not like to take the oils prefer to obtain Vitamins A and D with Adex. They are so pleasant to take! And they are the only tablets made from three vitamin sources.

People who begin with Adex should make it a point to keep it up regularly every day. Results are worth it. The regular use of Adex adds to comfort and efficiency all winter.

Now—at any good drug store—Squibb Adex tablets. Made by E. R. Squibb & Sons, manufacturing chemists since 1858.

CONSTRUCTION ON 5 HIGH SCHOOL BUILDINGS PUSHED

Construction of five new high schools resumed under the present board of education after work had been halted in the summer of 1931, is being pushed rapidly and three of the projects will be completed in June, John C. Christensen, school architect.

ADD yesterday. It is expected that the other two buildings will be ready for occupancy in September. The new schools will provide seats for 15,000 pupils.

Building operations got under way last year when the school board procured a $1,380,000 government grant and made arrangements with contractors to use $4,500,000 of tax anticipation warrants on the projects in lieu of cash.

The special budget committee of the board of education today will study a tentative $13,000,000 building appropriation which includes funds to complete work on the five structures.

Construction work is progressing on the Lake Technical High school, 14th street and Western avenue; Phillips High school, 50th and State streets; and Steinmetz High school, Barry and Melvina avenues; Senn High school, Glenwood and Ardmore avenues; and Wells High school, Austriana street and Ashland avenue.

JOHN NEWS VALUE

New York, March 18.—(AP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt was announced today as the unanimous choice of 100 journalists at New York university in a poll held to select the outstanding public figure from the standpoint of news value.

The journalists selected the ten persons who in their opinion are outstanding. In second place was Adolf Hitler, with 99 votes, while Charles A. Lindbergh was third with 91.

Others in the list are: Premier Benito Mussolini, 78; Mayor F. H. La Guardia, 64; Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, 65; Babe Ruth, 55; Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria, 54; Gracie Garbo, 44; and Alfred N. Smith, 29.

Denver Teacher Is Killed; Pilot Hurt in Plane Crash

Denver, Colo., March 18.—(AP)—Merrill J. Day, Denver teacher, was killed today in the crash of an airplane piloted by Wilson Reed of Brule, Neb. Reed, 35, had fractured skull and physicians said he probably would die. Witnesses said the plane crashed a few minutes after it took off from Municipal field. It fell from about 200 feet, but did not catch fire.

over the flat refusal of the labor union to agree to the carriers' request that the existing wage reduction agreement be extended.

The conference committee of managers, headed by W. F. Thibault, gathered today to consider the uncompromising rejection of their offer by the union men.

1,000 Ben Johnson.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 18.—(Special.)—Jeering and booing when Gen. Johnson's name was mentioned, nearly 1,000 union employees of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company voted conditionally today against participating in a Budd workers' election on Tuesday.

After a three hour session, during which the recovery administrator was subjected to a barrage of criticism from organized labor, a telegram was dispatched to the White House requesting President Roosevelt to assume direction of the Budd case. It was determined to throw a picket line around the polling place on Tuesday as part of the union's protest against conditions laid down by Gen. Johnson for the election.

2,000 TO PICKET PLANT

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Kenosha, Wis., March 18.—(Special.)—Every precaution to prevent any disorders at the plant of the Nash Motors company here tomorrow morning was being prepared tonight by Chief of Police John T. Sullivan.

Despite the declaration of Earl H. McCarthy, president of the Nash Motors company, that the company had no intention of opening its plant strike, the United Automobile Workers' union prepared to have its full Monday in an attempt to break the strength at all of the gates of the plant at 6 a. m. The usual starting hour is 7 a. m. John Milant, president of the union, said he would have 2,000 men on hand. The union has a membership of 2,600, although the peak employment at the factory at the time the strike began, more than two weeks ago, was 1,900 employees.

Chief Sullivan was also acting in accordance with a formal demand made upon him personally and the city of Kenosha generally, to provide protection for employees and property. The demand was made by President McCarthy in a letter to Chief Sullivan in which he alleged that threats had been received by both company officials and employees.

Union officials frowned on the offer of a ten per cent wage increase made by the Seaman Body corporation, a Nash affiliate at Milwaukee. The union is demanding a 30 per cent boost, and the unions in the Milwaukee, Racine, and Kenosha plants have agreed that no union will accept settlement of its demands until negotiations are completed for all three unions.

CONG. DICKSTEIN WARNS OF NAZI AGENTS IN U. S.

Addressing several hundred members of the Hebrew Immigration Aid society in the Stevens hotel last night, Congressman Samuel A. Dickstein of New York, chairman of the house committee on immigration and naturalization, charged that the German Nazi government is maintaining a secret Nazi police system in America. These Nazi police, the congressman asserted, are trying to induce America's 12,000,000 German-Americans to join the Friends of New Germany organization. He charged that those who refused to join are warned by the Nazi agents that their relatives in Germany will be harassed. Congressman Dickstein told his audience that congress tomorrow will begin consideration of a bill to investigate Nazi activities here.

Reports that she intended to be married to George Raft, film star, were denied by Virginia Peine Lehmann, estranged wife of Edward J. Lehmann of Chicago, on her arrival yesterday from California. "It's just silly Hollywood gossip," she declared. George Raft, who was also a passenger on the Santa Fe "Chief," also denied the report.

Mrs. Lehmann is in Chicago to get a divorce on the ground of cruelty. According to her attorney, William B. Gemmill, the case is expected to be heard by Circuit Court Judge Walter J. La Buy today or tomorrow. Mrs. Lehmann will ask an allowance for the support of her daughter, Joan, 20 months old.

The former Virginia Peine has been married twice. Her first husband was a Northwestern university athlete, William Welbel, whom she divorced in 1931. After playing "extra" parts, and taking several screen tests, at the invitation of a friend in Hollywood, Mrs. Lehmann is reported to be definitely launched on a film career under the name of Virginia Peine.

FINDS AVERAGE BED TOO SHORT FOR AUSTRALIANS

HOBART, Tasmania, March 18.—(AP)—The time will come, predicts Dr. Janet Craig, medical inspector for the education department, when the excessive height of Australians will be highly inconvenient.

"Already," she said, "doorways in trains and trams are too low for many men, and the average bed and ship's berth are becoming too short."

"For a long time I have been astonished at the amazing height of our adolescents at 14, 15, and 16 years of age, but in recent years it is the height of girls of 12 and 13 that is surprising."

CANADA TO FREE 546 JAILED FOR NUDIST PARADES

Doukhobors on Prison Isle Since 1932.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 18.—(AP)—The 546 inmates of Canada's strangest prison—Sons of Freedom Doukhobors—sentenced to three years on Plover Island, 27 miles from here, because they insisted "nudist" parades be to be gradually returned to the Doukhobor colony at Brilliant, Canadian officials disclosed today.

The prison was especially established in June, 1932, for the radical members of the Doukhobor colony, founded by immigrants from Russia years ago seeking freedom to live their lives in a way strange to those who did not share in their beliefs.

The Sons of Freedom sect refused to pay taxes, recognize British Columbia laws or send their children to school. When it was insisted that they obey the law, nude parades followed, property was destroyed and schools were dynamited, despite the rule of the group against violence.

Rounded Up in April, 1932.

Continued trouble finally caused the British Columbia authorities to round up members of the Sons of Freedom in April, 1932, and the authorities decided to establish a penal colony on Plover Island, off Vancouver Island.

As no further outrages have occurred, officials believe the ringleaders are in custody.

Brilliant is situated where the Columbia river, a narrow stream at that point, comes from the Arrow lakes. Husbands and wives were separated on Plover Island by high barbed wire fences 10 yards apart. More than 550 children of the prisoners were sent to selected homes in the Doukhobor settlements.

Under the arrangements for release, two committees will be formed, one by the provincial authorities and one by the Dominion government, which has paid from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 to maintain the prison.

Duties of Committees.

The first committee will receive applications from Doukhobors promising to care for relatives now in custody but who will declare their intention of obeying Canadian laws. The Dominion committee will consider applications submitted by the first committee and recommend release of prisoners as they see fit.

The authorities believe the return of all prisoners at the same time would result in a repetition of the nude parades which brought about the arrests. Only 15 per cent of the prisoners were classified, prior to their arrests, as members of the regular community of Doukhobors. The remainder were Sons of Freedom who took possession of vacant buildings in the settlement and refused to contribute labor or money to the community funds.

Raid 4 Gambling Places; Arrest Operators and 18

Capt. Thomas Duffy and Sgt. Anthony Tempke and Charles Sweeney of the Sheffield avenue station raided four gambling places yesterday, arresting the operators and 18 patrons. The operators of the handbooks and the addresses were Anthony Kuhn, 2176 North Clark street; Marshall Riley, 2730 North Clark street; Marvin Don Carlos, 2653 North Clark street, and Joseph Gullan, 2970 Sheridan road. All will be arraigned in the Town Hall court today.

BUYING OF RELIEF FOOD IN U. S. STIRS PORTO RICO'S IRE

(Copyright: 1934. By the New York Times.) SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 18.—The arrival of a second lot of several tons of relief foodstuffs purchased in the United States resulted in a strong protest to Gov. Blanton Winship by the Porto Rico chamber of commerce. It is argued that economic rehabilitation can be greatly speeded by buying through local merchants.

Relief Administrator Bourne, who favors local purchases, said he knew nothing of the shipment of foods from the United States until he received a cable. More than 90 per cent of all supplies consumed in Porto Rico normally come from the United States, making Porto Rico a bigger buyer than all Central America.

The local merchants told the governor they could furnish relief supplies just as cheaply as Washington and that they should not be deprived of their livelihood.

SCHALL FIGHTS GAG IN CONTROL OF WIRES BY U. S.

Fears 'National Libel Law' in Obscure Phrasing.

Washington, D. C., March 18.—[Special.]—The administration's bill to put federal control over all telegraph, telephone, and radio communications may cause telegraph companies to refuse critical dispatches from newspaper correspondents, it was charged today by Senator Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.].

"In my opinion," he said, "the federal communications commission bill now before congress for passage contains a new national libel law which can be used to gag the press of the United States. In every particular the language of the bill is so ambiguous as to make possible this construction."

"Up to now there has been no national libel law, but the New Deal seems to think one necessary. We find in section 207 of this bill the following language: 'Any person claiming to be damaged by any common carrier, etc.' Does this mean libel?"

"Then we find in the same section this language: 'No complaint shall at any time be dismissed because of the absence of direct damage to the complainant.'"

"In other words, if the correspondent of a newspaper in Washington writes: 'John Jones should not be re-elected to congress because he did not vote in the interest of the people.' Then John Jones is defamed; can John Jones sue the telegraph company as well as the newspaper?"

"In this fashion will a telegraph company refuse to send a press dispatch until a check from the federal communications commission passes on the subject matter?"

License Is Censorship.
"Of course, since it is necessary for a telegraph company to obtain a license from this commission before it can operate, this in itself, since the license is revocable, is censorship in every sense of the word."

"We find in section 604 a reference to the 'postmaster general' and licenses granted by him. Is the bill also to censor mail? When we write our letters in future must we take them unsealed to the postoffice and have them read by a censor before they can be mailed? What are we coming to?"

Day By Day Story By Bob Becker Experimental Farm

New Turkey "King."

TWO of the gobblers in the turkey flock put on a battle yesterday that was quite a spectacle. It developed into a regular fight marathon because these scrapers didn't quit until dark called a halt on the combat. For nearly two hours they sparred and rushed each other as if they wanted a decision.

Both of these gobblers are what Rawlings calls "red turkeys." That is, they are reddish or cinnamon brown in color. It looks as if the handsome young gobbler involved in the fight has challenged the reign of the old fellow that has ruled over the flock for some time. At any rate, yesterday this young blade decided the time was ripe for setting the question of who is boss decided. So he sailed into the "king" for all he was worth. At sundown the scrapers quit and roosted with the rest of the flock in a small tree at the edge of the barnyard. Shortly after daylight these long distance battles started in again. One of the boys put a stop to the fight because the young gobbler was throwing lefts and rights so fast that he would have killed the older bird. Looks as if there would be a new "king" of the turkey flock this spring, with the old feathered ruler stepping down and out.

The three young kids born a few days ago are coming along in fine shape. [They are on Tom Traubner's auxiliary farm near Wheaton, where the lambs are being born.] Just as an experiment it was decided yesterday to introduce a couple of lambs to the baby goats to see how the two different animals would react to such a meeting. The party could hardly be called a success. In the first place, the lambs showed no desire to get very friendly with the cute little white goats. After an experimental sniffing of noses the lambs weren't interested in their new playmates at all. [Possibly a Southdown lamb considers himself above an ordinary goat.] Then the old nanny goat [Nanette] busted into the party and upset things. She sniffed one of the bleating lambs, lowered her head, registered displeasure, and gave the little "mutton" a lusty push with her head as if to let it be known that she didn't want anything to do with such animals. So we took the lambs back to the sheepfold, where their hurt feelings were soothed by a bottle of cow's milk.

Clarence Thrurow, manager of the experimental farm, is keeping the boys busy these days on clean-up jobs, fencing and hauling fertilizer to the fields. It's too early to plow, too early to plant, and too early even to get awfully excited about garden seeds, so the boys on the farm are occupied with those tasks which have to be done before the work in the fields starts.

Paul Potter, agricultural editor of THE TRIBUNE, joined us yesterday on a tour over the farm in order to complete the details of locating the experimental crops. Several changes in the crop chart were made in order to get certain plantings in the most advantageous locations. Then we looked at some of the new fencing, discussed millet, sorghum and Sudan grass plantings in some of the fields in order to provide cover and food patches for the pheasants and quail, and talked with Clarence about where the locust trees will be planted in the ravines and on hillsides.

ROOSEVELT PAYS TRIBUTE AT FETE FOR CLEVELAND

New York, March 18.—[Special.]—A message from President Roosevelt, commemorating the ninety-seventh anniversary of the birth of Grover Cleveland, was read today during radio observances in which Dr. John H. Finley and President Harold Willis Dodds of Princeton university paid tribute to the achievements and character of the former President.

Writing from the White House under date of March 18, Mr. Roosevelt said: "The magnificently generous greeting which the American people extended to me on the recent occasion of my own birthday makes me happy to know that the anniversary of my forerunner in the presidency, Grover Cleveland, is being commemorated throughout the nation."

"Cleveland emphasized that public office is a public trust and it is in the spirit of Cleveland that we are coming to feel that a similar duty to the public is incumbent upon all, in whatever field, who are called to occupy positions of responsibility. We cannot honor too much the combined high mindedness and the high ability which were Cleveland's, for they afford a source of inspiration of which we are ever in need."

RAINEY CHECKS ON DEMOCRATS VOTING 'WRONG'

He Won't Use Results,
but Farley Might.

Washington, March 18.—[AP.]—With old-time regulars breaking away from the administration in droves on veterans' legislation, Speaker Rainey has ordered a detailed check to show which house Democrats voted "wrong" on 21 different occasions.

Rainey and other leaders are unwilling to admit that they plan any action against the outstanding irregulars. They say that nothing tangible can be done.

"But we'll have the information showing how many men have voted against us and on what occasions," the speaker said.

Many things could be done with the tabulation. If, for example, Postmaster General Farley, Democratic patronage dispenser, should telephone the speaker, it would be a simple matter for Rainey to refer to the list and see what the record showed.

Rainey classes 21 bills and resolutions as "administration." A glance at the list would show:

Hoopel of California has opposed 12 of them, Terrell of Texas, 11; Conner of Massachusetts, chairman of the labor committee, 8, and Crossen of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic steering committee, 7.

PHI SIGMA MEN TO BEAR BODY OF AVIATOR TODAY

Sloux City, Ia., March 18.—[Special.]—Phi Sigma fraternity brothers of Harold George "Scotty" Richardson, army reserve pilot who was killed when his plane crashed Saturday at Cheyenne, Wyo., will bear the body at funeral services Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Morningstar Presbyterian church.

The fraternity brothers shared honors with Richardson on the gridiron field and basketball court at Morningstar college here.

Mrs. Richardson formerly Miss Dorothy Sigard of Sloux City, was visiting her parents here at the time of her husband's death.

Surviving besides the widow are the flyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David A. Richardson, living near Modale, Ia., two younger sisters, Margaret and Mary and four younger brothers, Donald, Carl, Paul and Howard.

MISSING LAWYER FOUND SLAIN IN GRAVE OF GIRL

[Copyright: 1934, By the New York Times.]
MEXICO CITY, March 18.—A murder mystery confronted police last night when the body of Edmundo Rangel, a lawyer, was found in the grave of a young girl who had been buried last September in Apasco, state of Puebla. He had been tortured and strangled.

On March 10 Rangel was called to the local prison to get directions for defending a prisoner. After he entered the jail he was not seen alive again by his friends and for seven days intensive efforts were made to find him.

Rangel evidently felt death was near, for he wrote on the wall of a cell in the prison. "The town mayor, Juan Rosa, placed Edmundo Rangel in this cell on March 10, 1934." On the cell floor were blood stains.

The body was found doubled in a sack with a cord around the neck. Three men have been arrested and are said to have confessed the crime, but the police are seeking others who they believe planned the murder.

THE FEDERAL LOAN FOR THE TEACHERS.

Congressman Simpson has introduced the bill authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to take the securities offered by the Chicago board of education and advance the money needed to pay the teachers and school employees to date.
The advocates of this plan believe that a dependable security can be offered for a debt which the government can reliably hope to collect. Repayment has not been considered in much of the financial relief offered by the federal government, and in other instances in which there is a theory of collection the probabilities are not very good.

In this respect and by comparison it may be said that Chicago's request does presuppose a recovery by the government of the amount it advances.
That being the case, it is to be considered that no federal relief could have better purpose, viewed in all the details in which the government is supposed to be concerned. As relief the money would go to a hard pressed, devoted, and long imposed upon body of citizens and public servants. It would be a contribution to public education and it would result in an increase of purchasing power such as the administration desires to stimulate.

A recognition of these facts should bring congress to favorable action upon the proposal.

MEMORANDUM FOR TAXPAYERS.

Those who have just paid the first installment of the 1933 income taxes may profitably consider the fact that as yet the tax bills do not in any fashion reflect the government's colossal expenditures for so-called relief. The prospective 7 billion dollar deficit is all to be met for the present with borrowed money. Some day those borrowings must be repaid, with interest, and that day is fast approaching. No taxpayer should delude himself with the notion that his present tax bill covers any considerable part of the billions being distributed by the Public Works administration, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Agricultural Adjustment administration (except for the revenues coming in from processing taxes), the Civilian Conservation corps, the Home Owners' Loan corporation, the Farm Loan corporation, etc., etc. So far as the taxpayers are concerned, they haven't begun to fight. As Gen. Johnson so feelingly put it, they ain't seen nothin' yet.

A TRUST, BUT NO BRAINS.

The brain trust has to be seen to be believed.
Witness the facts disclosed the other night at Terre Haute before the Mid-West Council of Agriculture and Business by Maj. Theodore P. Walker, vice president of the Commercial Solvents corporation.

The Agricultural Adjustment administration is making the taxpayers give the farmers a bounty to grow less corn and thus reduce the supply of corn to what are deemed to be the domestic requirements.
One domestic requirement is alcohol for beer and purposes. Alcohol can generally be produced more cheaply from blackstrap molasses than from corn, but in spite of that fact the liquor industry agreed in its code to use alcohol made from American grown cereals and to pay a processing tax of 20 cents a bushel on all the grain so used. From the point of view of the liquor business this was a handsome concession. Chemically, alcohol is alcohol regardless of the source from which it is made. For purposes of gin confectioning or whisky blending, spirits made from blackstrap are indistinguishable from spirits made from corn.

The liquor industry, as Maj. Walker made plain, accepted the corn alcohol provision in its code precisely because it wished to cooperate with the AAA in helping the corn-belt farmers. The industry wished to create good will where it needed it, in an area where voters contributed largely to the enactment of prohibition. The liquor business, so Maj. Walker said, can use 45 million bushels of corn a year and would do so were it not for the strange behavior of AAA.

No sooner was the code signed than the AAA suspended the alcohol provision and thus permitted the use of blackstrap alcohol in liquors. According to Maj. Walker, Secretary Wallace had agreed with the industry to impose a compensating tax on blackstrap, but did not do so during the 45 day period in which the suspension was to operate and has not done so since. The result is that an alcohol plant at Terre Haute is closed down and others are running at well below capacity, although the demand for alcohol at present is great. Maj. Walker reported that millions of gallons of alcohol made from grain are available in various parts of the country, but are not being sold because of the blackstrap competition.

So much for the bare facts. Maj. Walker implied that the explanation lies in the influence of two New York banking houses interested in Cuban sugar and therefore interested in maintaining a market for blackstrap, which is a sugar refinery by-product. The intimation is that the money changers have not been driven quite to the outer portals of the temple. They are still among those present.

Possibly so. In any event, the American taxpayers are paying the farmers to grow less corn, and the AAA, which devised the tax, virtually requires the liquor industry not to consume 45 million bushels of corn which it is only too anxious to use. A brain trust, indeed.

RUNAWAYS IN CONGRESS.

Recent roll calls in both the senate and house reveal that the Democratic congressmen are getting out of control and out of order. They have squared away against the administration on several issues of large importance. They have voted expenditures which the President was determined to avoid and have been out of hand on a number of occasions. It was by only one vote that the compromise on the veterans' funds was saved in the house of representatives and even that compromise was opposed to Mr. Roosevelt's requests.

A year ago congress was putting all responsibility on the President and his advisers and was passing bills as per request, without discussion or amendment. It is not in the nature of things that such a political honeymoon should continue. Gradually the opposition finds its feet again and begins to take advantage of dissensions in the majority ranks. Thereafter the recommendations of the President encounter increasing trouble, and in highly controversial times a serious break may come between Capitol Hill and the White House.

It is to be noted in the present instances, and noted without any feeling of security, that in the conflict between the President and congress the Democrats are voting against the program merely to make the course of government more extravagant. This is to be explained in part by the fact that the November elections confront members of congress. Their constituencies have been excited to a state of mind in which they cannot understand why they should be refused anything. The program of spending federal money without stint has so increased the desire for public money that the congressmen refuse to take any responsibility for stopping it.

The unpleasant prospect is that congress will continue in this mood. Even when the President and the treasury officials begin to feel some concern for public expenditures and public credit, they will find congress hard to deal with. It is to be expected that when congressional opposition to administration policies gains strength and headway it will not be for the purpose of checking the abnormal programs but of extending them more extravagantly and less prudently. It is not to be wholly unexpected that the President will have to look to the Republicans to make up for Democratic defections when he finds that the time has come to put on the brakes.

GRECIAN ADVENTURES OF MR. INSULL.

Samuel Insull, continuing strangely to round out his career, escaped from Greece, although probably not, as was first reported, in petticoats.
A skirt would have added nothing unbelievable to the story, but it may not have been needed. The man too sick to move disappeared with unseen heels, if you take the account of the Greek police.
If the Greek authorities ask to be understood in their actions of the last year or so an effort can be made. It will have its difficulties, but Mr.
Insull's experience with American politicians in former years may have prepared him for Greek contingencies, which, even if dissimilar on the surface, may be similar at the core.

Well informed Hellenes, even officials, may draw our attention to the fact that Mr. Dillinger has removed himself from more places in the United States than Mr. Insull has in Europe, and that Mr. Insull, stepping out of his apartments, has been apprehended, while Mr. Dillinger, breaking out of prisons, has not been. Here must be conceded a certain applicability of truth.

The old Greek tragedy was one of fate. The plight of Insull is one of character, not in its essence less admonitory. Man succumbing to progressive weaknesses may be even more a tragic
he cannot overcome.

Editorial of the Day

WHO'S TO BLAME?

(The Peoria Transcript.)

Michael L. Igoe, former Democratic leader of the Illinois house of representatives and now a candidate for congressman at large, attempts to shift the blame for army air mail tragedies to the Republican party.
"If the Republicans blame us for the loss of these planes, our answer is that that's the force they gave to America," Igoe says. "The blame lies with the Republican administration. We had a right to presume we had efficient machines and an efficient corps of men and that the trained army flyers could fly the mail in America."

Mr. Igoe in his campaign speeches goes on in this vein at great length. He does not, however, submit a single fact to prove his position.

"Do you know of anything less difficult than carrying a sack of mail?" asks Igoe. "Have you ever heard of a war that stopped because it was night, or was not fought because it stormed, or was run
as a union shop?"

These two questions alone should suffice to discredit Igoe, who, it must be admitted, was a valuable member of the general assembly. In his present campaign, however, he seems to have put behind the logic and clear reasoning that made him a dangerous opponent on the floor of the house.

When Mr. Igoe intimates that carrying a sack of mail is one of the easiest things in the world he deals in humbug. And when he suggests that carrying the mail is in any way comparable to combat fighting in time of war he displays a lamentable lack of information.

Whether Republicans or Democrats are to blame for the present weakened condition of the military air force of the United States is, of course, a debatable question. It is true that the army air corps was almost a skeleton when the Republicans turned the country over to the Democrats.

Mr. Igoe forgets, however, that the army air corps budget is fixed by congress. In the last eight years Democrats in both houses have fought every proposed increase for either service, just as they have in the present congress. Only a week ago Democratic leaders rejected the plans of army staff officers for more money for men and equipment.

If Mr. Igoe will look through the Congressional Record he will discover that quite as many Democrats as Republicans have been opposed to an adequate national defense, including a modern air force, for the United States.

THE GHOSTS WALK.

A sexton in a village in Franconia, who had lost a relative through illness, was at his wife's side when he was wanted in Würzburg, but there was no one to take his place. So he departed, after having put the following notice on the locked gate of the cemetery: "Cemetery closed on account of a death. Coming back as soon as possible."—London Times.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to Line, let the quips fall where they may.

I OUGHT REALLY to send this narrative to my good friend Most Embarrassing Moments. But the bus just laid down flat and wouldn't bulge
pushed all the gadgets and gears in sight and up under the hood, but nothing happened. All the lights were working, so it wasn't battery trouble. I sounded my new horn and it screamed like a demon, so that wasn't the trouble. I had looked at the gasoline gauge before I started out and it recorded twelve gallons, and as I had only gone three or four miles that couldn't be it. I hastily reviewed mentally all the books on "The Gasoline Engine," "Automobile Upkeep and Care," "Cause and Prevention of Automobile Accidents," "Rules and Regulations of Auto Driving in Chicago," and
"The Painting and Upholstery of Motor Cars."
No good; there wasn't a paragraph in any of them that had the slightest bearing on the present case.
I looked at the water and the oil; both full up.
The fan wheel belt looked like new. Nothing seemed wrong anywhere.

I had to sit down and wait for something to happen. A taxicab halted behind me. "Any trouble?" queried the taxi driver cheerfully. "Heaps and heaps," says I, "machine no go." "Let's have a look," says the merry taxicabman, and he probes around the old bus fore and aft. "I'll tell you," says he finally, "these here overmotors, none of 'em, go along very well unless they got gas in 'em." "I've got twelve gallons," says I. "Nary a drop," says he. "But the gas gauge records twelve gallons," says I. "There may be twelve gallons according to the gas gauge," says the taxi driver,
"but there ain't nothing in your tank. How'd you like me to boost you over to the nearest fillin' station?"

I said it was a fine idea. But as we made the journey I reflected bitterly on the fact that you can't believe a gadget these days any more than you can a human.

HEARTH SIDE

There's little use in minstrelsy and fad
When wheateads turn to gray,
But moons of Michaelmas can be seen
As sweet as moons of May,
For kisses are a brighter thing
A score of years away,
And lady's love a lighter thing
Than on an older day.

The lads that went to fairs to play
And burst their new sleeves out
Have stories that are theirs to say
Of tickling in the rout.

Oh, churchyard was a place to miss
On moonly nights of old
In hedges, when a face to kiss
Was minted into gold.

Was minted into fairy pence
To squander over spring
Before the years' experience
Tossed coin to hear it ring.

The mirth that shakes at cider quips Forgets the night he knew
That his lips lay beside her lips
In clover and the dew.

And if the old love's history
And ride's out in the bay,
The moons of Michaelmas can be
As sweet as moons of May.

NANCY SHORES.

THE NAZIS have issued a new order forbidding the circulation of funny stories concerning their peerless leaders. But the stories couldn't have been so very funny, because it isn't likely that the Nazis have any sense of humor anyhow. For if they had any idea of the comic side of life how could they help bursting into screams of merriment every time they looked at Herr Hitler and his comic mistakes? That's funnier than any funny story the Brown Shirts could possibly think up.

A WIFE FILES suit for divorce in Chicago because her husband has presented her with a grand total of five black eyes. But the papers don't indicate whether she trumped his ace in bridge games or ate crackers in bed. Hanging a black eye on a wife's face is truly reprehensible, but of course there may be extenuating circumstances.

IT'S GENERALLY AGREED that there are twenty-five thousand words in the English language in general use. Limited like that, it's astounding to notice the new brands of whiskies that blossom out every day in the likker shoppes show windows. Of course they have family names to draw on besides the twenty-five thousand words in the language, but even so it's wonderful to see the array of new names of whisky brands. Of course they use the Scotch dialect, too, but they're about run through that, and now they're doing it over with different combinations of the words. Of course, by changing the words around, both the Scotch and the English, they will still be able to have several thousand new brands every day, but if they keep it up they're going to run out of names, now you see if they don't.

EVOLUTION.

God made the world,
Then made a man one day;
Man made metal money,
And frightened God away.

VIRGINIA SPIKER.

NOW WE SEEM to have one popular idol arrayed against another popular idol. It would be a much less strain on the feelings of the nine hundred per cent Americans if popular idols would only stand shoulder to shoulder and see eye to eye. But when one popular idol bawls out another popular idol—gosh! What to do? What to do? What

TASTES IN WATER.
WATER containing sewage is very dangerous. It often causes epidemics of typhoid fever and of dysentery. Fortunately, not many people are now exposed to badly polluted water, and in consequence epidemics of these diseases are infrequent. The next generation will know almost nothing of typhoid and other water-borne diseases.

But, water that is only moderately polluted poses a not objectionable increase in taste and odor. In the old days there were wells and springs that were noted for the sweetness of their waters. They were in unusual demand because of their attractive flavors. Analyses showed that most of these sweet waters were polluted, a few of them dangerously, and it was the pollution that gave them their attractive flavors.

Chlorination, filtration, and holding in reservoirs—measures that have proved valuable in making water safe for drinking—processes not infrequently make it responsible for tastes and odors that take away thirst. The proportion of chlorine that is needed to kill typhoid and disentery bacilli is so very small it rarely can be recognized by taste or smell.
Most of the sweet waters were polluted by sewage held back by logs in order to protect the citizens of cities down the river, it became necessary to use excessive amounts of chlorine for the time. There was complaint from these cities of the chlorine in their water supply. Part of the complaint was justified, though some of it was due to phenol bodies poured into the water from certain industrial plants. Most objections to the taste of chlorinated water are based on the presence of these phenols due to trade waste rather than to the chlorine itself.

Much of the disagreeable taste of safe waters is due to algae and other plankton. These are plants of low order growing in water and wet places along the banks of walls, growing better, as a rule, in clean, fairly pure water than in that which is badly polluted with sewage.
The farmer knows algae and the green growth in his horse trough and in and around his ponds.

Growth of algae serves a useful purpose, and always has, but making water more attractive in appearance and flavor is not a contribution to that end. Algae contain considerable fats and oils, and wind readily causes them to break away and spoil the water. The plants grow rapidly and die in great quantities, and the decomposition products are offensive to smell and taste. In a few instances stock has been poisoned by drinking waters badly polluted by some of the algae.

In great industrial centers with many open sewers the phenols from trade waste are the principal cause of unpleasant tastes and odors in the public water supplies. Chlorination is a poor second.
Growth of algae ranks even lower. In

WARRANTY DEED.

Chicago, March 14.—(Legal Friend of the People.)—1. Of what value is a warranty deed on a piece of property without guaranty title? 2. When a piece of property is purchased on contract is it compulsory to give warranty deed accompanied by guaranty title? 3. If one has the deed and not guaranty title, what is necessary to obtain the guaranty title, and does this entail a lot of work and expense?
C. F.

1. A warranty deed may convey good perfectly good title, depending on how the title stood in the hands of your grantor.
The additional importance of a guaranty policy would be to make you sure of the facts and place you in a position to satisfy future purchasers.

2. Depends on the wording of the contract.
3. If by guaranty title, you mean a guaranty policy, application should be made to the Chicago Title and Trust company, 60 West Washington street. Possible alternative: If your grantor is deceased, or is relying on an abstract.

From Across the Sea

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LUTEBECK, Germany.—In order to reunite the German people, the Kultur for Chancellor Hitler's Germany, workers of the volunteer labor corps will soon be put to work excavating the ruins of the former city of Rung-holt. It is located on the Frisian coast.
An enormous tidal wave inundated the once flourishing Schleswig city with sand and mud one cold January night in 1362. Until 13 years ago all traces of the port had vanished.
Italy has its Pompeii, and Premier Mussolini has been busily excavating other buried treasure troves, imperial palaces and other tourist luring exhibits. Although a home lore investigator unearthed the first clues to Rungholt in 1921, no systematic excavation was undertaken until Nazi officials announced their plans to lay bare the fate of the 7,000 inhabitants, 200 houses and 22 churches.
Skeletons, weapons, and even several pieces of pottery and "kerosene" vases of Germanic origin have been discovered since 1921.

Since the ruins are so close to the sea, excavation will be difficult due to the tides. Considerable loose material probably has been swept away by tides and currents. Nevertheless, it is hoped that material concerning true Germanic art, architecture, and life in the 14th century will be brought to light once the ruins are freed of the sand and mud now covering them.

Perhaps even the legendary church bells, which are said to chime forth from the depths of the sea on clear days, will be found. According to an old sage, they once were brought to the surface, only to be lost when the chains holding them broke and the greedy miners dropped back into the Baltic sea.

ECENTRICITIES IN TENNESSEE.

Chicago, March 15.—I was much interested by the photograph in THE TRIBUNE of March 12 of electrical ranges which are about to be offered to the residents of the Tennessee valley through the activities of the Electric Home and Farm authority. It is a striking example of the spirit of the children in our visionary, RHFA president, is wandering.

Mr. Lillenthal soon will have electrical current to sell, and so, with an RFG fund of $10,000,000 at his disposal, he proposes to place electrical ranges and water heaters in as many homes as he can, this in a section abounding in natural fuels and marked by exceedingly low average buying power.

If Mr. Lillenthal were at all interested in bettering the living conditions of the families among whom he proposes spending $10,000,000 he would provide them with appliances designed to save them time and labor. There is no record that the residents of the Tennessee valley ever have experienced any great difficulty cooking their meals or heating their waters. But Mr. Lillenthal must sell large quantities of electricity, and so we find him placing the selling pressure on those devices that consume it.

If homes of low buying power are to be electrified and the families aided in buying appliances, then it would seem that a washing machine, for example, would justify its installation far more quickly than a range or a heater, but the washer consumes only 3 cents to 5 cents of current per week, and thus saves the family a considerable sum.

His action may be well advised, however. His activities are being conducted among families of such low average buying power that if he did start by distributing washers among them, one commentator declares, it might then be necessary to provide the clothing to be cleaned.

MY DEAR MADAM.

Chicago, March 15.—Your simplified spelling brings to you many complaints, a few protests. It is a step in the path that will lead to the day when we will not be able to tell the difference between the educated and the simple except by their thinking.

Another step you might launch would bring you the blessings of millions of business men, their stenographers, and other timid souls who admit the need for it, but haven't the temerity to begin it. I refer to the needless formal and utterly meaningless "salutation" and
"closing" of the usual letter.

If a man stepped up to me on the street and said, "My dear Mrs. Cooper," or even, "My dear madam," I would say, "Fresh thing!" and look for his officer. But that same man can write it to me in a letter and I take it whether I like it or not. He may be a man that I've never seen or that I have seen and detest. . . . and perhaps he doesn't like me, either; but when he writes to me he will call me dear, and he will also swear that he is very truly mine, or something equally as silly and false.

Before Mrs. Roosevelt started for the White House she showed an interest in such a movement. But you won't let that spoil it for you, will you? Such "salutations" and "complimentary closings" belong in the limbo of deep bowing entrances and exits, and of the flourish and scroll of penmanship. Isn't it time we stopped paying toll to those habits?

THREE JUNIOR COLLEGES.

Chicago, March 15.—Since our American democracy is founded on our public schools, our citizens will be pleased to know that our board of education is considering the construction of three junior colleges, one on each side of the city.

Before considering the building of colleges for our children who have already completed their common school education, however, we should stop to consider the plight of the children in our visionary and high schools, the children ranging in age from five to eighteen years.
The children in the elementary schools of Chicago today do not enjoy the same advantages their fathers and mothers enjoyed at the same schools a generation ago, and some of our high schools are not on the accredited list of the North Central association.

Since all later education is based on the work of the elementary schools, these schools should be given first consideration. There ought to be a principal in every elementary school and manual training and household arts should be restored to the grades before we establish colleges for those who have graduated from high school. When the children in the grades and high schools receive an education on a par with that given thirty years ago we can begin to think of colleges. Let us hope that will be soon.

CONGRESS GROUP TO AIR INSULT RECEIVERSHIPS

Committee Will Resume
Its Sessions Today

The congressional inquiry into receivership and bankruptcy practices in Chicago, for which more than 180 witnesses have been called, is scheduled to resume hearings at 10 o'clock this morning in the United States court-house.

None of the witnesses is to be heard today. Instead, the committee will hold an executive session to hear an outline of a dozen cases in which receivership fees have already totaled $10,000,000 from its investigation.

George F. Cummerson, and to determine its course during the week allotted for the present session of the inquiry.

Tomorrow morning the first witnesses will be heard in Federal Judge Barnes' courtroom. It is believed that the committee will first examine the Insult receiverships, in which fees total $400,000, with particular attention to charges of Attorney Samuel A. Kitzelson, former corporation counsel, that collusion was practiced in the choice of receivers and attorneys.

About 20 witnesses have been served with subpoenas for this phase of the investigation.

Week May Not Be Time Enough.
The committee will attempt to complete taking of evidence on railroad, street car, insurance company, and bondhouse receiverships. However, it is anticipated that the week will not give sufficient time to hear all of the summoned witnesses. Members of the committee have previously said this session will not be the last in the city.

Among the receiverships to be investigated in addition to the Insult utilities are those of the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul railroad, the American Bond and Mortgage company, the Garard Trust Investment company, the Illinois Life Insurance company, the Security Life Insurance company, the Victory Life Insurance company, and the various street car companies.

Investigator Cummerson revealed that 15 witnesses for whom subpoenas have been issued have not been found. The majority of these are out of the city without the intention of evading service, he said. The missing witnesses will in no way hamper the inquiry, he added.

McKeown Is Chairman.
Chairman of the committee is Congressman Thomas D. McKeown of Oklahoma, who arrived here Saturday. Other members of the committee, with the exception of Congressman William W. Hess of Ohio, who is ill, arrived yesterday. They are Congressmen John C. Lehr of Michigan, Warren J. Duffy of Ohio, and U. S. Geyer of Kansas. Congressman Randolph Perkins of New Jersey is here to take the place of Congressman Hess.

ECONOMY BILL'S FAILURE DECRIED
BY LA GUARDIA

New York, March 18.—[Special.]—The legislature's failure to pass the New York City economy bill holds up a public works program totaling $137,606,660, Mayor F. H. La Guardia declared today.

He made public at the city hall a tabulation of the projects, with their estimated cost, and the number of men they would employ, to remind the public, and the members of the legislature, that the federal funds for the projects depend on the city's balancing its budget through the passage of the economy bill.

If the city gets the economy bill, the mayor's statement said, "we can provide 3,261,776 man-days of work for an average of $7.02 man per month over periods ranging from two months to three years, depending on the size and character of the project on which they will be employed."

NEW CWA ORDER MAY VOID CENSUS COSTING $400,000

Personnel Limitation
Cripples Program.

The results of a new census of Chicago, taken by the federal civil works administration at a cost of $400,000, may never be known because of changing orders emanating from official Washington. This was revealed yesterday by Charles S. Newcomb, director of the new Chicago census.

The order which threatens the entire census operation, provided that after April 1 all CWA workers employed must be persons needing relief. The mandate was issued by Harry L. Hopkins, national relief and CWA chief.

Few Skilled Tabulators.
Newcomb said that he had searched the city for persons who could operate the intricate card punching machinery that will emit millions of tabulations on the number of human beings and their manner of living in Chicago. A staff of nearly 100 persons was finally obtained, he said.

"Most of these people are skilled workers, however, and are not in need of relief," Mr. Newcomb said, "but this is a CWA project and, as such, is not privileged. If we have to complete this census by hand tabulation it will take three years, and what good will it be then?"

$401,000 Spent to Date.
The census director said that to date $385,000 had been expended for pay rolls and $16,000 for materials in the census work. Practically all field work has been completed, he reported, and all that remains to complete the census is a tabulation of the reports. Newcomb declared that the job could be finished up during the month of April with $35,000 for salaries of his skilled operators and the printing materials.

In the census headquarters at 180 North Wacker drive there are eleven tons of cards and three and one-half tons of hand tabulation sheets. The amassed data will be worthless unless tabulated immediately, Newcomb contended.

2,400 Tabulate Homes.
Before the census was really started, shortly after the first of the year the 2,400 enumerators were sent out to make a count of vacant homes in Chicago.

A preliminary analysis of the early work shows that 7.3 per cent of the total of private family residences in Chicago, including apartments, flats, and houses and excluding hotels and rooming houses, are unoccupied. Charts show that nearly 20 per cent of the residences in the Fuller park area, bounded by Pershing road, 55th street, the Pennsylvania railroad, and Princeton avenue, are unoccupied. Newcomb declared that there was a greater percentage of unoccupancy in this district than in any other in Chicago.

BRITISH GRIP ON ARGENTINE TRADE HITS U.S. EXPORTS

Reciprocity Treaty Urged to Regain Business.

BY HAROLD TATAM.
(Chicago Tribune Staff Service.)
BUENOS AIRES, March 18.—The problem of how to increase the volume of American-Argentine trade is a complex one which has been the subject of close study by business men and Argentine government officials. It has given birth to plenty of headaches.

The slump in trade between the two countries has been catastrophic. In 1929, Argentina imported approximately $300,000,000 worth of goods from the United States and exported $150,000,000 worth in return. But as this was an exceptional year, 1929 will be taken as a standard with which to measure the decline. In that year Argentina bought $200,000,000 worth of American goods and sold $110,000,000 worth of goods to America.

Purchases Rise in 1933.
The figures had shrunk in 1932 to $47,000,000 and $17,000,000, respectively. The figures obtainable here for 1933 are provisional and subject to correction. Moreover, they are made in paper pesos instead of gold pesos as formerly. Roughly, however, they indicate American purchases were 70 per cent higher than in 1932, with American sales about the same.

To the heavy balance in favor of the United States must be added the value of invisible exports in the shape of dividends earned by the $300,000,000 invested by Americans in Argentina.

This tremendous restriction in purchases from the United States was not entirely due to "bad times" with consequent shrinkage of purchasing power. This is shown by the fact that in 1929 imports from the United States represented 25 per cent of total imports, while in 1932 they represented only 13 per cent. In other words, the United States lost a larger proportion of business with Argentina than the rest of the world did. The loss reflected almost exactly the ratio of diminution in American purchases from Argentina.

Seek Lower Tariff.

There are many factors which must be taken into consideration in devising means to restore trade to its 1929 status—or to a more satisfactory one.

Spain Asks for Lower Tariffs and New Trade Pact with U. S.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)
MADRID, March 18.—The present barriers against American exports to Spain could be removed by a bilateral accord settling long standing differences between the two countries, Spanish and American commercial officials said today.

Spanish exporters complain that their leading products, such as manufactured cork, olive oil, and onions, are kept out of the United States by prohibitive tariffs and that American grapes are excluded by "unfair" regulations of the department of agriculture.

American business people here are displeased because Spain has granted preferential customs rates to certain European countries on important imports, including automobiles, motion pictures, artificial silk, and cured meats, the rates running from 50 to 100 per cent below the rates on American products.

Necessary to Reciprocate.
The new "contingent" system has further complicated matters because it is based on the theory that Spain should buy from countries which buy from Spain. The schedule to be worked out will affect American exports to Spain because this country has a 2 to 1 unfavorable trade balance with the United States.

In which the balance will not be so heavily against one of the parties, President Roosevelt's recent statement that no permanent increase in American exports can be looked for without a corresponding increase in imports is a recognition of the generally accepted theory that the day of one-way trade in trade is dead. This tends to support the Argentine contention that the first requisite for a resuscitation of trade between the two countries is a lowering of the American tariff wall against Argentine products.

However, it is not sufficient to say: "Reduce tariffs all around and a big increase in trade will automatically follow." Although such a procedure would doubtless produce that result, it is necessary to find a practical method of tariff reduction that will not cause more ill than it cures.

Factors Are Listed.

Among the important factors to be considered are the following:

1. Argentina's main exports are precisely the agricultural products which the United States possesses in such abundance that it has been found necessary to curtail the production of them.

2. So long as the most favored nation clause exists in Argentine trade treaties, any tariff concessions which Argentina might make on American products would apply equally to European competitors and consequently largely nullify themselves.

3. The recent 30 per cent devaluation of the Argentine peso tends to restrict purchases abroad. It has been asserted by Minister of Agriculture Luis Duhal that so long as the present low price for agricultural produce prevails, Argentine imports should be reduced by 300,000,000 pesos annually. This is an obstacle to progress which would disappear with a boom in produce prices, but it is an important one under existing conditions.

Major U. S. Products.

A reduction on the American duties on various articles would bring a corresponding decrease in Spanish tariffs on the major American products sold here, they declared.

Government officials have assured the chamber that reductions would be made on the tariff covering automobiles, rubber manufactures, pharmaceutical products, business machinery, industrial machinery, dyes, lumber, and other American products in case the United States takes the desired steps. Wine producers have been especially active in urging the government to negotiate an agreement settling the commercial difficulties.

Manufacturers in return for the lowering of American tariffs on agricultural produce would apply equally to European competitors and consequently largely nullify themselves.

4. A very far reaching factor—perhaps the most serious of all—to which sufficient importance has seldom been given in the discussion of trade development with the United States and other countries is a clause in the new Anglo-Argentine treaty. It virtually gives Great Britain a strangle hold on the greater part of exchange available in Buenos Aires. This undoubtedly diverts a considerable number of orders from other markets to England. It is a factor which will cease to operate once the official control of exchange is relinquished. However, it is hard to predict when that is likely to occur. The clause in question reads as follows:

"Whenever any system of exchange control is in operation in Argentina, the conditions under which foreign currency shall be made available in any year shall be such as to secure that there shall be available for the purpose of meeting applications for current remittances from Argentina to the United Kingdom the full amount of the sterling exchange arising from the sale of Argentine products to the United Kingdom after the deduction of a reasonable sum annually towards the payment of the service of the Argentine public external debts payable in countries other than the United Kingdom."

The real teeth of the treaty were contained in this clause and its inclusion in the pact is a testimonial to the far-sightedness of the British negotiators.

Argentina Reduces Tariff.

In devising means to encourage American trade with Argentina, it is therefore necessary to find some way to overcome these obstacles. It is noteworthy that a marked increase in Anglo-Argentine trade has followed the signature of the Roca pact under which Argentina, at Great Britain's request and in return for concessions to Argentine meat exporters, reduce her tariffs on a number of articles in which British manufacturers specialize, without, however, giving them any first preference.

This would indicate that a reduction of Argentine tariffs on manufactures in which the United States is pre-eminent should produce an improved demand and might well be included in any trade pact which may be negotiated once the whole matter has been threshed out in Washington.

A temporary solution—or partial solution—of the problem seems to lie in a reduction of Argentine tariffs on goods in which American manufacturers lead the world, in return for American tariff concessions on agricultural products such as, linseed, casing, canned and fresh meats, etc.

But in the opinion of many eminent economists, a return to the figures of the "golden years" of 1929 and 1930 can hardly be looked for without the aid of a straight reciprocity treaty.

Britain Has Strangle Hold.

4. A very far reaching factor—perhaps the most serious of all—to which sufficient importance has seldom been given in the discussion of trade development with the United States and other countries is a clause in the new Anglo-Argentine treaty. It virtually gives Great Britain a strangle hold on the greater part of exchange available in Buenos Aires. This undoubtedly diverts a considerable number of orders from other markets to England. VITAMIN D 'SUNSHINE' MILK WILL BE READY HERE IN A FEW DAYS

Chicagoans will be able to buy "sunshine" milk within the next few days, it was announced yesterday. "Sunshine" milk is whole milk to which vitamin D has been added by ultra violet ray irradiation or by other methods.

Applications of the dairy companies who are members of the Milk Council, Inc., or the Chicago Milk Dealers' association have been approved by either the American Medical association, the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation or Columbia University, which control the uses of vitamin D methods.

Only the formal approval of the Chicago board of health is being awaited before starting to supply the new vitamin D milk, and Dr. Herman N. Bundeisen, president of the board, said this is to be acted upon tomorrow morning.

Some of the Chicago dairies have ordered equipment by which to irradiate the milk in their plants under powerful carbon arc lamps. Others intend to treat the milk by adding small amounts of concentrated materials containing the vitamin, or to feed the dairy cows irradiated yeast under stipulated conditions.

REBEL SHEIK, 9 WIVES AND 26 OF BAND ARE SLAIN

DIARBKIR, Turkey, March 18.—(AP)—Eight years after taking a rebel's part in the Kurdish revolt against the weakening Kemalist government, Sheikh Fakir, his nine wives and 26 band members, have been caught and killed by the Turkish militia.

Five militiamen were killed and seven wounded in a 24 hour combat with the sheik beside the River Djanikan in an isolated region of the wild eastern province of Diarbekir.

Government forces had vainly pursued this accomplice of Sheikh Said since 1925, the year of the great revolt.

DISORDERS BREAK OUT IN FRANCE OVER U. S. IMPORT

15,000 Protest Against American Turpentine.

PARIS, March 18.—(AP)—American turpentine today caused a fresh outbreak of political unrest, lingering in France since the Paris riots of early February.

Fifteen thousand workers of southwestern France, parading behind red flags at Mont de Marsan, threatened "more drastic action" unless the government protected the French turpentine industry against United States competition.

Idle Join Demonstration.
Demonstrators, including many unemployed, assembled by train and motor bus to raise their voices against parliament's action in cutting the industry's subsidy from 30,000,000 francs (approximately $1,550,000) to 12,000,000 francs (about $780,000).

America sends much turpentine to France and the native product also has suffered heavily from a drop in prices.

Chanting the Internationale, communists joined the demonstration with banners reading "Against hunger, Fascism, war" and asking for "work and bread."

VATICAN CITY, March 18.—(AP)—The climax of Holy year ceremonies for hundreds of American pilgrims will come tomorrow when Pope Pius presides at ceremonies for the joint canonization of two saints dear to American Catholics and one who is better known in Italy.

The three to be elevated to sainthood are: Teresa Marchionni, Redemptorist nun, who died in 1891, before her death a Carmelite nun of Florence; Father Pompilio Maria Pirrotti, one time confessor to the Scapoli institute, and Father Giuseppe Benedetto Cottolengo, founder of the Institute of the Divine Providence of Turin.

The Carmelite order has 28 establishments in the United States, while the order served by Blessed Pompilio is represented in numerous Latin American cities.

It Continues to Shine

We all know the expression, "Behind the clouds the sun is always shining." We have had many clouds in the last four years; but life insurance continues to shine day after day, month after month, year after year.

It continues to do its job as it has done it for over one hundred years, bringing benefits to the people—keeping homes together, giving schooling to children, and giving mothers an opportunity to rear their families; making happy and serene the future years for thousands of men and women.

Jane Fortune to Be Bride of Joseph E. Nolan

Troth Revealed at Dinner, Given by Parents.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A dinner for twenty Saturday evening in their large and hospitable home at 1451 Astor street, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Fortune announced the engagement of their second daughter, Miss Jane Fortune, to Joseph E. Nolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Nolan of Boston.

In manner, even to the many toasts that were drunk to the health and happiness of the popular young couple, the occasion recalled the dinner little more than a year ago at which Mr. and Mrs. Fortune made known the betrothal of their eldest daughter, Mary, now Mrs. William James Lawlor Jr.

For many months the engagement of Miss Fortune has been whispered in younger circles for Mr. Nolan has been her devoted escort at most of the parties and social gatherings since he finished school and came here to practice law a year and a half ago.

Bride-to-Be Is Debutante of 1931.

Miss Fortune, a slender brunette with charm and vivacity, was introduced to society at a dinner-dance at the Blackstone in December, 1931. Before this she attended the Girls' Latin school, Rosemary hall, and Smith college, where she spent one year. She is active in the Junior League, the Service club, and other philanthropic organizations. Mr. Nolan was graduated from Yale in 1929 after preparing at Exeter. He took his law degree at Harvard university. Since coming to Chicago he has made his home with Roland K. Smith Jr., another young lawyer, at 1209 Astor street.

Miss Fortune will leave this week with her parents for Hot Springs, Va., where they will meet the younger sister, Miss Barbara Fortune, and Miss Eleanor Kirkland, the Weymouth Kirkland's daughter, who will be celebrating their spring holiday from Vassar.

Miss Fortune and Mr. Nolan are planning to be married quietly in June.

William H. Avery Jr. to Wed Cleveland Girl.

Of equal interest this morning is the announcement of an engagement made yesterday in Cleveland, O. It is that of Miss Eugenie Petrequin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Petrequin of Shaker Heights, a suburb of Cleveland, to William H. Avery Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Herbert Avery of Evanston.

Miss Petrequin, who is known as Gene to her many friends in Chicago and on the north shore, was graduated in the class of 1932 at Smith college following her preparation at Hathaway Brown school in Cleveland. She is an active member of the Junior League. Mr. Avery was graduated from Princeton university in the class of 1927 and from Harvard law school in 1930.

So many eastern bachelors have been thinning out the ranks of our active post-war generation, that it is indeed to be noted that Miss Petrequin will be coming here to live, since Mr. Avery is practicing law in Chicago. She has just returned to Cleveland after having spent three weeks with her sister and her fiancé, Mr. Avery, and Mrs. Myron H. Watkins of Kentwood. The wedding will be an event of the early fall.

Mary McElwain to Wed Henry P. C. W. Barber.

Indeed it seems that this is a barometer morning, for the engagement of a third promising young lawyer, Elshon and Mrs. Frank Arthur McElwain of Evanston are making known the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Mary McDonald McElwain, to Henry P. C. W. Barber, son of Mr. Charles S. Barber and the late Mr. Barber, also of Evanston. The McElwain home is really in Minneapolis, but Bishop and Mrs. McElwain are in Evanston temporarily while the bishop is serving at the Seabury Western seminary. Miss McElwain studied in the east, and Mr. Barber was graduated from Princeton in the class of 1928, and the Northwestern school of law. This wedding will also be in the early fall.

Indiana Girl to Be Robert Howell's Bride.

Mrs. Arthur Brayton Slade has relayed to us the engagement of a young woman whom she has known and admired since she came to Chicago to make her home several years ago. It is that of Miss Evelyn C. Meeter, daughter of Mrs. Herman Meeter, whose home is in southern Indiana, to Robert N. Howell, son of Mrs. Maynard D. Howell of Evanston. The wedding will be a spring event. Talcott Griswold will be back from California where he went a fortnight ago with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Phillips, in time to usher, April 7, at the wedding of Miss Sarah E. Hayes, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Wade Hampton Hayes of Cranford, N. J., and George Edward Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pardee Nichols of New York, at the Brick Presbyterian church in New York City. The Rev. Dr. Elmer B. Benson, pastor of the church, will read the ceremony.

Cornelia Gray Lunt to Be 91 Today.

Another milestone—the 91st—is reached today by Miss Cornelia Gray Lunt, who is Evanston's "first lady" and the charming mistress of that big brown house in Judson avenue known as Anchorfast. Miss Lunt's hundreds of friends will be dropping in all day to bring congratulations while other greetings are pouring in by messenger and mail. It is this evening that Miss Lunt has especially asked her friends to come for a musical.

Miss May Barron, of whom Miss Lunt is very fond, is going to sing a

Loyola Players Give Drama by Their Director

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Loyola Community players, whose program includes the staging of a new manuscript once every year, gave "Padre Carillo," a drama by their director, Charles S. Costello, its first performance in their handsome and well equipped theater yesterday afternoon. Seven years of activity, and a playhouse that might be envied by professional producers, make this organization one of the strongest groups of amateurs in the city.

In "Padre Carillo," Mr. Costello has written a play that is rich with the atmosphere of the Franciscan missions among the Indians of the southwest, where the traditions of the old Spanish occupation still survive. The scene is a remote settlement of these gentle friars in Arizona; the period of the story is relatively modern.

A prolog and epilog are placed in the present; the two acts that intervene tell a retrospective story of twenty years ago. The romantic color of the mission life, enhanced by a well designed setting, is effectively treated; and from the persuasive use of detail it is apparent that Mr. Costello has studied his material at first hand.

The play deals in a leisurely way, with two incidents of crisis in the religious vocation—first, a young educated Indian's hesitation between a career in the order and his love for a girl of his tribe; second, and more important, the agony of spirit that comes to Padre Carillo through a young woman convert. For the Padre it is a falling in love on the second hand, so to speak, because the girl happens to bear a strong resemblance to the fiancée of his layman period, whose death on the eve of their marriage caused him to take monastic vows.

The Indian youth goes to his mate, but Padre Carillo easily wins a spiritual victory. The two stories are interrelated by the fact that the Padre regards the young man as his adopted son.

"Padre Carillo" is a good vehicle for a church organization of amateurs. With a more definite emphasis upon the priest's emotional problem, which becomes somewhat vague at times, it might be the sort of play that Otis Skinner used to like. Herman Nagel gives a sound performance as the Padre.

The Selwyn theater will inaugurate, on Easter Sunday night, a policy of plays current or recently popular in New York, reproduced with well-known players in the leading roles. Its first offering will be "The Shining Hour," an English comedy in which Gladys Cooper, distinguished star of the London stage, is now making her first Broadway appearance.

Violet Heming, who has frequently starred in Chicago engagements, will have Miss Cooper's role in this interpretation of "The Shining Hour." Conrad Nagel, who has had a brilliant career in the films after an early start in the drama, will appear in the role acted in the east by Raymond Massey. The author of the play is Keith Winter, a new and promising British dramatist.

Business Men Put Their Paintings on Exhibition Today

An exhibit of oil paintings by business men will open today in the galleries of the Chicago Lighting Institute at 20 North Wacker drive. The works have been done by the Chicago Business Men's Art club, which has members drawn from many professions and callings.

Arthur Hurst, treasurer of Marshall Field & Co., will show "Still Life" and "Ranchos de Taos." Dr. J. J. Singer has entered the portrait of a physician friend, Dr. Maurice Seymour Mazel. The canvas to be shown by Edward A. Renwick, consulting architect, is titled "Bass Fishing."

The show will continue daily and evenings until March 31. It is open to the public without charge.

Eleanore Block Expounds Good Music in Dance

Negro Glee Club Gives Concert of High Merit.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Eleanore Block's dance recital at the Goodman theater yesterday afternoon was distinctive for several reasons. Quite evidently she is a musician, and she picks out a list of good music to be interpreted by the dance. Taking this list, she creates her own dances for it, and she also possesses an alert brain for the creation and a lithe body for the interpretation. Finally, apparently dissatisfied with only a piano to play the music, she made use of a small but efficient orchestra yesterday with Daniel Saldenberg as conductor.

The result was a highly agreeable program. Miss Block has an excellent pictorial sense for the line and design of her dances; in fact, she rather concentrates on this side instead of on their emotional possibilities. Perhaps because of her cool intellectual approach her pictures are unfailingly attractive. She was highly popular yesterday.

There was male choral singing of high merit in Kimball hall yesterday afternoon when the Federal Glee club, a Negro organization, gave a concert under the direction of William Myrick. Something over thirty in number, the club sang with uncommonly fine balance of tone and a controlled discipline that was a pleasure to hear. Its bass section is one to cause envy in the hearts of all male choruses.

Part of the program consisted of spirituals, but the Federal Glee club has also made researches in the field of classical music, and the names of Handel, Kreutzer, and Beethoven were included on the printed list. Mrs. Gladys H. Sims, soprano, was the soloist in a group of songs, also blending her voice effectively with those of the men in some of the spirituals.

Leon Rosenbloom, an excellent pianist, and Raymond Kopy, an excellent baritone, gave a joint recital in Curtis hall yesterday afternoon before a good sized and appreciative audience. Mr. Rosenbloom played the Beethoven Sonata in D minor, opus 31, No. 2, a group of Schubert and Brahms, and another group of Chopin. He is a good technician and a good interpreter. Mr. Kopy made much of a group of German songs, explaining the less familiar ones and singing them with a fine dramatic sense. A later section was devoted to songs by Russian and American composers.

The joint recital by Rosalind Glickman and Nathan Viskovsky at Kimball hall last night became a program of Jewish life as presented to the senses of sight and hearing. Mr. Viskovsky is a dancer and pantomimist of rather striking ability, well versed in the arts of assuming picturesque poses and of moods, whether serious or comic. Miss Glickman played much piano music from the pens of Jewish composers and gave some dramatic readings of poems in contrasting moods.

One takes the entire program to be authentic, as it was certainly vivid and interesting. It is true that the casual attendant was a bit handicapped, since some of the phrases presented were specialized and therefore in need of explanation. But there were others of universal appeal, and in these Mr. Viskovsky was particularly brilliant.

St. Mary's Parish House Corner Stone Rite Held

The corner stone of the new parish house of St. Mary's Episcopal church, Evanston, was laid yesterday by the Rev. Harold L. Bowen, rector of the church. The ceremony followed morning services in the church. The new parish house, which is to cost $50,000, is one of the few building projects to be undertaken by churches this year.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Glorifying the bath with the newest of bath luxuries, a lavender meal that softens and perfumes the water.

Price Is Pleasing

State street is excited today about something swanky that's just come over from London—a lavender meal that softens your bath water, perfumes your skin and isn't expensive. Being British, its makers concentrate on the contents rather than the package, but they've done an awfully smart job with this one, a round box of smooth, thin wood in natural color.

The problem of getting rain water in which to bathe being what it is, this English inspiration is a perfect one: a handful of the meal in the bath water transforms it instantly. You'd think it had been raining lavender blossoms. And for quick slicking up, when you just wash your face and hands, a bit of the meal gives the operation a special, refreshing touch. To our way of thinking it's the final solution to the going away gift problem. Whether your pals are down in Mexico, over in India, or just buzzing around these states, they can have soft water if you've been clever enough to present them with a box of this lavender magic. Our own box of it was holdily lifted by a relative starting off on a journey.

It's one of those elegant little things that wins a soft spot in your heart; once you've swished it into your tub and relaxed in the soft, subtly scented water, you'll feel that you can never do without it—and wonder how you did before.

We like the fact that it's not expensive. Many of the bath luxuries are, we find. And because they're so tempting, having to resist them because of the high price is doubly hard for even the strongest of us. In this case you'll never feel that you're making too great inroads on the income.

Uncle Sam Files Income Tax Liens Against Film Folk

BY GEORGE SHAFER.

Hollywood, Cal., March 18.—[Special.]—The collector of internal revenue in Los Angeles has imposed federal income tax liens denoting asserted under payments in past years against Ted Healy of $1,708 and Ted and Betty Healy jointly, $2,746; Ed O'Brien, $453 from 1931; Irene Franklin, $345 for 1929 and Director Clarence Brown, $3,097 for 1931. The liens lie over 1927, 1928, 1929, and 1931.

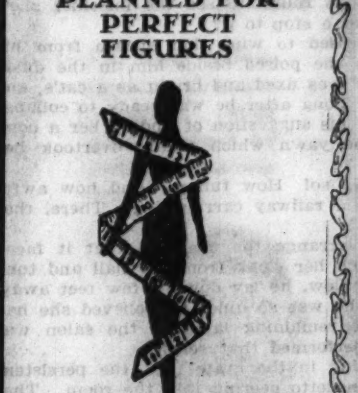

Earl Pingree, once an athlete at the University of Chicago and a graduate of the dramatic arts section of Hinsdale conservatory, now in Hollywood, has been cast in Paramount's "Cleopatra," featuring Claudette Colbert and Henry Wilcoxon. Pingree, who played the part of Messala in the road company of "Ben-Hur," is a son of the late Dr. Merrill G. Pingree, a cancer specialist.

Lyle Talbot bought the birthday cake for Alice Faye's mother's birthday party. Does that turn Nick Forster's hair red? [It's red naturally.]

Miss Mae West has used Oscar Smith, the Paramount studio boss, black for a bit in every film she's made so far. He's to be a hack driver in her current one, "It Ain't No Sin."

This week marks Gene Paletta's 23d anniversary films and Jack Holt's 20th. Holt has completed 100 films, his latest being "Whirlpool" at Columbia.

By Mae Time.

Good Morning!
Remember that "Search for Beauty" contest Paramount sponsored not long ago? Well—it serves as basis for this movie's plot which has been manipulated so as to give a panting public sight of the winners.

You will find this film rather "different," speedy and resourceful, with crooks in the background, Olympic winners in the foreground, pretty girls and athletic young men dashing hither and yon and enough suspense and wisecracks to keep the action gingery.

Just out of jail, where they have been taking the rap for a guy higher up—and conventional out of town when the cops arrived—Larry Williams and Jean Strang arrive in California. Here they conceive the brilliant idea of buying a collapsed physical culture magazine and hiring a pair of Olympic winners to edit it. The "editing" part is a stall. That the promoters plan to attend to, in good old ten, twenty, thirty sensational style. The names of the winners are, really, what they're buying. They think the slick con man they've fronted for is persuaded to back the enterprise.

To their consternation, however, they find that the editors they've hired are dead set on selling. Also, that the latter have brains and principle as well as brawn.

The organization is almost immediately divided into two warring factions—one of which is determined to turn out a clean publication, and the other a dirty one.

Far be it from me to itemize developments—but they're plenty!

The acting is interesting.

There's one stunning and most unusual ensemble number in which all of the contest winners participate, doing some eye-entrancing calisthenics, the while looking like a million dollars.

"Search for Beauty" is lightweight entertainment that entertains.

See you tomorrow.

1. The first step is to identify the problem. This involves understanding the situation and the goals that need to be achieved. It is important to gather all relevant information and to define the problem clearly.

YANKS GATHER 15 HITS; DEFEAT BRAVES, 10 TO 4

Gehrig and Lee Collect Home Runs.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Aided by Lou Gehrig's second home run of the training season and 14 other assorted hits, the New York Yankees defeated the Boston Braves, 10 to 4, in an exhibition game today.

Hal Lee of the Braves also hit a homer, driving one past Babe Ruth in the second inning with Pinky Whitney on base to give Boston a 2 to 0 lead. The Yanks came back to rattle Ruth for three runs in the third when Gehrig started things off with a triple, and added another trio in the fourth when Gehrig welcomed Leo Marum with his home run. They finished up with four runs in the sixth.

Three Yankee pitchers, Charlie Ruffing, Lefty Gomez, and Vito Tamulis, yielded 11 hits and only one run. Tamulis was able to blank the Braves for three innings. Score:

New York (A. I.)... 000 000 000—10 15 2
Boston (N. J.)... 000 000 000—4 11 2
Batteries—Ruffing, Gomez, Tamulis and Dickey, Jorgens, Betts, Marum, Krause and Spolner, Hogan.

CARDS WHIP GIANTS, 2-1.
Miami Beach, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the New York Giants, 2 to 1, today for their third straight victory of the Grapefruit league season over the world champions. The Giants got only five hits, two of scratch variety, off Dizzy Dean. Bill Hallahan, a New York pitcher, collected seven hits.

All the scoring came in the second inning when Dean and Freddy Fitzsimmons were on the mound. Joe Medwick opened the St. Louis inning with a double which Phil Weintraub reached but couldn't hold. After two were out Buster Mills added another double and Leo Durocher singled. Weintraub's two base hit and Stoney Jackson's single brought the Giant run. Score:

St. Louis (Mo.)... 000 000 000—2 7 1
New York (N. J.)... 010 000 000—1 5 2
Batteries—Dean, Klinger, Hallahan and F. Davis, Delaney, Fitzsimmons, Clark, Sullivan and Hooley, Damitz.

BROWNS BEATEN, 1 TO 0.
West Palm Beach, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Mike Jansko, pitcher for the House of David baseball team, blanked the St. Louis Browns today, 1 to 0.

Not a Brown reached first base until the sixth inning when Grube singled to left. The first hit after that, the major leaguers were trying with their opponents, but such apparently was not the case.

Jack Knott, who started on the mound for St. Louis, yielded three hits, all the Browns' David team gathered, in the first inning. He was followed by Baecht and Mills. Score: House of David... 100 000 000—1 3 0
St. Louis... 000 000 000—0 5 0
Batteries—Knott, Knott, Knott, Baecht, Mills and Grube, Henalar.

REDS BLANK PHILS, 3 TO 0.
Tempe, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds shut out the Phillies, 3 to 0, behind the pitching of Strout, Lindsay and Sy Johnson in an exhibition game today. A four hit attack on left, the first hit after that, the major leaguers were trying with their opponents, but such apparently was not the case.

John Fitzgerald, St. Louis, who had led the lead a week, was forced into second place in the American Bowling Congress tournament today.

After opening with a mediocre 873 count, Thornton Brewers followed with 953 and then crashed through with a 1,038 count to mount to third place in the standings with a 2,849 total.

U. S. Brewers Take Fourth Place.
United States Brewers, members of the South Side Traveling league, after a poor 803 opening, pulled up with 2,827 and fourth place. The Chicagoans turned in two games over 1,000, scoring 1,006 and 1,018.

DODGERS BEAT ROCHESTER.
Orlando, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Scoring seven runs in the first inning, the Brooklyn Dodgers overwhelmed the Rochester Red Wings of the International league, 13 to 6, in an exhibition game today. Score:

Brooklyn... 011 004 000—13 12 3
Batteries—Brown, Poirer, Michaels and Andy, Lewis, Crowl, Harris and Sukerford, Quinn.

PIRATES BEAT HOLLYWOOD.
Paso Robles, Cal., March 18.—(AP)—A home run over the right field fence by Arky Vaughan, his third of the training season, helped the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4 to 3 victory today over the Hollywood Shrikes. Score:

Hollywood... 010 000 020—3 8 3
Batteries—French, Harris, Voltman, Padden, Shellenback, Shahan, Hile and Basler.

RED SOX, 7; DETROIT, 5.
Sarasota, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers went down to a 7 to 5 defeat at the hands of the Boston Red Sox in their first practice game with a major league team today. Boston got in most of its heavy hitting against Elton Hoggsett, who was pounded for six hits and four runs in three innings. Score:

Boston... 011 009 100—7 13 2
Batteries—Fraser, Horvath, Auker and Hayworth; Walberg, Melander, Rhodes and Elmer.

MAUREEN ORCUTT WITHDRAWS FROM PINEHURST GOLF.
Pinehurst, N. C., March 18.—(AP)—Decision tonight by Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., not to defend her title in the Pinehurst Golf Club tournament, which begins tomorrow.

Miss Orcutt has won the tournament for the last three years. She was Clutter, runnerup in the national meet in 1932 and semi-finalist last year, has been here for a week adjusting her putting touch to Pinehurst's sand greens.

A field of 72 will begin qualifying play tomorrow. There will be an 18 hole qualifying round, with the low 16 to continue in match play.

Rex of Decatur to Captain North Carolina State Five.
Raleigh, N. C., March 18.—(AP)—Ray Rex, Decatur, Ill., a guard, today was elected captain of North Carolina State college's 1933 basketball team.

Setters and Tonti of the West division, Auburn Park of the South, and Quigley of the South, emerged successfully yesterday from the first round of the Knight of Columbus Basketball league title playoff at the 1324 Regiment armory.

The four games were featured by the defeat of Damen, runnerup for league honors last season, in overtime by Setters, 18 to 16. Tonti beat Santa Maria of the South and section, 27 to 23; Auburn Park won from McHale, 26 to 25; and Quigley scored in the last minute to defeat Calumet, 18 to 15.

Quarter-finals will be held Wednesday night, with Hughes vs. Tonti, Englewood vs. Auburn Park, Setters vs. St. Cyr, and Quigley vs. Loyola-Hyde Park.

Skyzenta Saves Day.
A one handed shot by Tony Skyzenta in the final seconds of the overtime period, gave Setters its decision over Damen. The losers had forced the game into the extra session on a shot from half the distance of the floor by Jole Kluchinskas as the gun was about to sound. At half time Damen led, 9 to 8, but Johnny Acher and Harry Delorme started a rally that put Setters ahead before Damen could score again.

Quigley, South end champion, had to finish fast to upset Calumet. A basket by Regins, followed by a free throw, provided the winning margin after the south side team had tied the score with less than two minutes to play.

Auburn Park's speed was too much for McHale in a thrilling game. With five minutes remaining McHale led by four points.

Husar, Sevelik Score.
The Tonti-Santa Maria game was close until near the end, when Firpo Husar and Ed Sevelik sank baskets to gain the decision. Santa Maria led at the half, 10 to 7. Lineups:

CHARGE CHINESE GOVERNOR SOLD OUT TO SOVIETS

British Are Blamed, Too, for Province War.

BY JOHN POWELL.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SHANGHAI, March 18.—The trial of Chin Shu-jen, former governor of Sinkiang province, now in progress at Nanking, has produced charges that the ousted official looted the treasury and made a secret agreement with Russia which gave the Soviets complete control of Sinkiang's commerce and industry and facilitated the propagation of communism in that area.

Sinkiang, also known as Chinese Turkistan, is China's most western territory and borders on Soviet Russia. Since the Chin Shu-jen was ousted Sinkiang has been involved in civil warfare, the opposing factions alleged to be receiving support from the Soviets and British interests through India and Tibet.

Get Soviet Munitions.
[Reports last week stated that several members of the British consulate were killed or wounded and 2,000 Uyghurs, residents of the city of Kashgar, were massacred in fierce fighting between Tungan forces and the newly proclaimed "independent government." The town was sacked. The Tungs were bent on rescuing a group of their own tribesmen besieged in a Kashgar fortress. The Uyghurs were reinforced by troops from Yarkand and Khotan and Kirghiz tribesmen. British agents are alleged to be sponsoring a separation of Kashgar, Khotan, and Yarkand into an independent Moslem domain under an Indian Moslem prince.]

A Chinese witness, Aisha, holding the position of foreign commissioner, alleged that Gov. Chin Shu-jen made an agreement in 1931 granting the Russians important trade privileges in exchange for which Chin Shu-jen obtained large stocks of munitions and motor trucks from Soviet factories.

Stole Silver and Gold.
The witness charged that a Soviet diplomatic official entered the province in a Soviet airplane and flew to the capital, Tihua (or Tihua), where the agreement was signed, but kept secret from the Nanking government.

Chin Shu-jen was ousted from Sinkiang several months ago and fled to China, where he was arrested and since has been a prisoner. In addition to the charges pertaining to the agreement, Chin Shu-jen was charged with looting the Sinkiang treasury of $800,000 worth of silver bullion and 1,000 ounces of gold bullion, part of which was deposited in Soviet banks and the remainder in foreign banks of Tientsin.

AUTHOR OF STAGE HIT, 'THE STUDENT PRINCE,' DIES AT 72

BERLIN, March 18.—Wilhelm Meyer-Förster, author of one of the world's greatest stage hits, "The Student Prince," died today after a long illness. He was 72.

"The Student Prince" claimed the biggest stage success of all time. It was a dramatized version of a short story Meyer-Förster wrote in 1899 called "Karl Heine." He attained a sale of 30,000 copies within two years.

Its success induced the author to rewrite it as a play. The play has been translated into every modern language, and at present is being produced in Tokyo and Japan and in Johannesburg, Union of South Africa, in English.

Meyer-Förster was made an honorary citizen of Heidelberg in 1922. His body will be cremated in Berlin Tuesday.

LABOR'S STATUS REGARDED VITAL IN U.S. RECOVERY

Prof. Berman Gives Study of Changes.

BY EDWARD BERMAN,
Associate Professor of Economics, University of Illinois.

With the aid of data published monthly by the United States bureau of labor statistics with respect to indexes of employment and pay rolls in manufacturing industries it is possible to measure the change in labor's status since the Roosevelt administration took office. These data take the twelve month average for the year 1926 as 100.

In employment the lowest point during the depression was apparently reached in March, 1932, when the index number had fallen to 85.1. Since that time the monthly indexes for employment have been as follows: 86.0 [April], 87.7, 82.8, 87.3, 71.6, 73.9, 74.0 [October], 71.4, 70.1, 69.3 [January].

The analogous figures for pay rolls in manufacturing industries are as follows: [the lowest point in the depression was also reached in March with an index number 35.4] 34.9 [April], 35.9, 43.1, 46.5, 45.9, 53.3, 53.6 [October], 50.3, 49.8, 49.4 [January].

In October, 1933, the high point of private employment under the administration was reached.

Between March and October, according to these indexes, employment in manufacturing industries in the United States increased about 24 per cent. Over the same time pay rolls in the same industries increased 60 per cent. The indexes for February and March, 1934, show a further increase in both employment and pay rolls.

To what extent was the Roosevelt administration responsible for the improvement between March and October? It seems reasonable to suppose that the vigorous action which the President displayed in bringing about this improvement. Undoubtedly the expectation that as national recovery comes into effect prices would rise gave an impetus to the buyers of goods.

But it must not be overlooked that other countries in the world also experienced a considerable improvement in employment conditions during the same months. This, between February and September, unemployment decreased 46 per cent in France, 30 per cent in Poland, and 33 per cent in Italy. In Czechoslovakia the number of unemployed decreased 35 per cent between February and September. Great Britain also experienced a considerable improvement, the numbers of unemployed having declined 20 per cent between January and September, with smaller but nevertheless continuous declines in every month reported since that time.

U. S. Upturn on Par with World.

Unemployment in the United States seems to have been not much more extensive than in other countries. It is possible that without the vigorous policy of President Roosevelt our improvement between March and October would have been much less, but there seems to be little justification for crediting the improvement which did take place exclusively to the policies of the administration.

The administration had spent considerable sums of money prior to October, especially in connection with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, but it hardly seems open to doubt that the major portion of the administration's expenditure in its fight against the depression has been incurred since October. The Public Works Administration, Citizens' Work Administration and numerous other agencies did not get started to any considerable extent until November. These expenditures have since continued without much abatement.

Despite this fact, employment and pay rolls declined between October and January, and rose again in February. The decline has been slight and it might have been much greater had the government not continued its distribution of funds. A consideration of what might have occurred during the present winter, if the expenditure of funds had been insignificant, and if the CWA had not put vast numbers of unemployed to work, is not likely to produce a very optimistic view of the future.

Oppose Collective Bargaining.
Of essential importance in the whole recovery program has been the attitude of labor organizations. The famous Section 7A of the National Industrial Recovery act, with its apparently clear requirement of collective bargaining, was received with enthusiasm by the trade unionists, many of whom in the next few months greatly increased membership.

Much of this favorable aspect from the labor point of view has changed for the worse since October. Employers who bitterly fought trade unions in other years continue to oppose collective bargaining through independent unions. The company union movement has grown apace.

Bond Advance Attributed to Banker Buying

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The recent sharp upturn in the price of bonds was explained in La Salle street yesterday as due to a number of factors, but principally to the fact that excessive supplies of idle money have been invested by banks. The banks, with a lot of money in their vaults, have been awaiting developments that would enable them to invest their money profitably and safely, but nothing has happened.

Now a situation has arisen where the banks must find some place to put their money where it will earn a profit. For several years, of course, the banks have been putting their money into short term government securities, which returned them only fractional yields.

Buyers Short Maturities.
Take a case cited by one house which some time ago had $100,000 in short term government bonds. Knowing that a bank in a Missouri city had that amount of paper, an offer was made which would have netted the Missouri bank a small profit.

"But what would we do with the $200,000?" the bank president asked. "Besides that, we have $500,000 in our vaults now."

What finally happened was this. The bank, after selling the government paper later, started pushing $100,000 at a time into the bond market, buying bonds with near maturities. This was multiplied thousands of times as other banks started to take similar action. The heavy buying began to absorb high grade bonds which mature in 1934 and 1935, so that the supply began to dwindle.

More Buyers than Sellers.
Now, dealers assert, there are more buyers than sellers when a good issue is offered. The increases in the prices of top grade securities naturally has brought up the secondary issues.

Then confidence has been coming back a little and many business enterprises have been making profits. Another reason given for the strengthened bond market was the guaranty of bank deposits by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which lessened the fear of many bankers of runs.

An additional reason for the upturn is buying by insurance companies, which are back in the market again, according to bond house traders.

Reach Peaks for Year.
A. J. Striling of Winthrop, Mitchell & Co. said that high grade issues maturing in 1935, 1936, and 1937 have been in great demand and they have been selling at record highs for the year.

"In this field corporates, rails, utilities, and industrials are leading," Mr. Striling said. "People who have had idle funds are making investments, and we haven't a sufficient supply of the top grades to meet the demand. The demand is widespread throughout the United States, but we heavy issues of the Pacific coast. Prices are the best in three years."

Matthew J. Hickey of Hickey, Doyle & Co. said the advance in the bond market has been as marked in the United States as in the listed.

"There has been a considerable accumulation by corporations of their own bonds over last year," Mr. Hickey said. "When these bonds are purchased by corporations they are taken out of the market. Such buying has had an important strengthening effect on the entire bond market by removing a considerable part of the available supply."

Bank Buying Develops.
"Bank buying has developed. One of our customers is a bank in a small Wisconsin town. This bank some time ago gave us an order for twenty-seven issues in lots of two $100,000 bonds each. That is the sort of buying which is developing. When the market starts to go up the supply becomes less plentiful. We have noticed a sharp upturn in secondary issues and during the year we have seen increases as high as from 100 to 600 per cent. I might cite two cases. On March 2, 1933, Butler Brothers defaulted on $1,000,000 of bonds at 35 to 36. Now they are quoted at around 90, a year ago Balaban & Katz 5 1/2's, due in 1936, were quoted at 25. They were quoted recently at 80."

AIR CONDITIONING
FOR 2,200 CARS
PLANNED IN '34
Air conditioning apparatus will be installed in 2,200 railway passenger cars this year, a survey by the Railway Age reveals.

Present plans provide for fair conditioning of all types of sleeping and passenger cars on many railways and installations on long haul observation and Pullman cars on others, says the journal, adding:

"While programs as of March 19 are incomplete, some carriers plan air conditioning of complete trains. Thirteen hundred railway owned and 917 Pullman owned cars are included in the program. By the end of 1934 all principal trains will be fully or partially air conditioned, carrying a number of cars in service to $500. At the close of 1933 there were only 648 such cars of which 404 were railway owned and 244 Pullman owned."

U. S. PARTIALLY CONTROLS 8 OF 10 NATIONAL BANKS

Holds Stock in 6,300 Institutions.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 18.—(Special.)—Eight of the ten giant banks which stand at the apex of the country's credit structure are today at least partially owned and controlled by the federal government.

This fact, revealed today through an investigation of the bank stock held by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, brought to light a new development in the spread of government control under the New Deal which has already made 21 million persons dependent on federal cash or loans.

Buying preferred stock in banks to help them out of their difficulties, the RFC now is part owner of almost half of the banks in the country. Approximately 6,300 of the country's 14,000 banks have sold stock to the RFC, giving it a voice, like any other large stockholder, in each bank's management. In many banks the RFC holds the dominating interest.

Buying preferred stock in banks to help them out of their difficulties, the RFC now is part owner of almost half of the banks in the country. Approximately 6,300 of the country's 14,000 banks have sold stock to the RFC, giving it a voice, like any other large stockholder, in each bank's management. In many banks the RFC holds the dominating interest.

The five other banks out of the ten largest in which the RFC has a stake are, in order of their size, the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, Bankers Trust company of New York, First National Bank of Chicago, Central Hanover Bank and Trust company of New York, and the Security First National bank of Los Angeles. In each of these institutions the RFC holds from 20 to 76 per cent of the stock.

Working Control in 24.
A check of the RFC stock holdings as they have been reported by the corporation to the house of representatives disclosed that out of the 100 largest banks on the basis of their deposits, 21, 1933, deposits the RFC owns stock in 37. It appears to have an absolute or working control in 24 of these 37.

One case of direct RFC interference with the management of one of its large banks has been made known publicly. In January the RFC forced the election of Walter J. Cummings as chairman of the Continental Illinois National bank and dictated the selection of new directors, which Mr. Cummings has recently been made treasurer of the Democratic party so that the RFC now controls the bank and the head of the bank, the fifth largest in the country, controls the treasury of the Democratic party.

Purchases Capital Notes.
Altogether the RFC has sunk approximately $1 billion in the purchase of federal cash in the preferred stock or capital notes of banks. Capital notes are purchased where laws prevent the issuance of preferred stock. Although the notes do not carry voting rights, the RFC stipulates other measures of management control.

In addition to this huge investment in bank stock the RFC has advanced 1 billion $97 million dollars in cash loans and stock holdings the New Deal or its successors in political power can hold away over billions of dollars in bank deposits and resources and over millions of individual bank depositors. In the eight largest banks having stock in government hands alone there are 6 billion dollars of deposits.

Mellon Is Holdout.
A survey of the country's larger banks shows that there have been many notable holdouts against the drive to sell stock to the RFC. Most prominent of all those standing aloof are the Mellon banks.

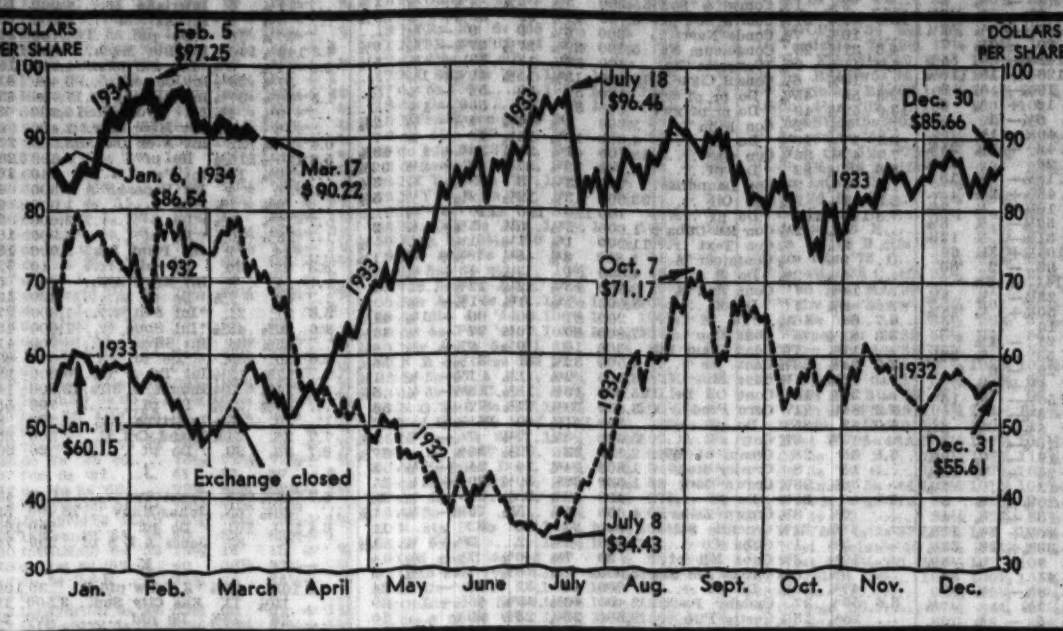

Neither the Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh, which ranks 20th in the country, nor the Mellon Union Trust of Pittsburgh, which ranks 25th, have sold any stock to the RFC. Andrew W. Mellon, patriarch of the family, who is well versed with federal law and tax procedure, is credited with making one of his few recent appearances at a meeting of the Pittsburgh clearing house on the day that the association was to discuss preferred stock sales to the RFC. He is understood to have held out against united action by the clearing house banks in favor of preferred stock sales.

Another conspicuous holdout is a group of large San Francisco banks led by the A. P. Giannini interests. Of the largest New York banks only the First National of New York, which ranks 13th in the country, has held back.

3 Chicago Banks Shun RFC.
Among the largest Chicago banks the Northern Trust company, the Harris Trust company and the City National Bank and Trust company have not sold stock to the RFC.

Names of many prominent banks among the 100 largest appear, however, on the list of those with stock held by the RFC. Among them, besides those already mentioned, are the Irving Trust company, the Manufacturers Trust company, and the Bank of the Manhattan company, all of New York; the Cleveland Trust company, the Chemical and Bank Exchange company, and the National Bank of Detroit, the Commerce Trust company of Kansas City, the Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis, and the Toledo Trust company.

PITTSBURGH PLATE
GLASS 1933 PROFIT
PUT AT $3,993,933

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, March 18.—(Special.)—Net profits of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company for 1933 amounted to $3,993,933, after depreciation, obsolescence, depletion, federal taxes, provision for loss on deposits in closed banks and other charges. This is equivalent to $1.88 a share on 2,140,805 2 1/2 par shares of capital stock and contrasts with a net loss of $60,737 in 1932.

Current assets on Dec. 31 last, including $10,448,718 cash and marketable securities, amounted to $23,444,235, and current liabilities to $3,667,179, compared with cash and marketable securities of $10,578,168, current assets of $28,673,685, and current liabilities of $2,801,659 at the end of the preceding year.

In their remarks to stockholders, Clarence M. Brown, chairman, and H. S. Wherrett, president, said:

"The immediate outlook for increased demand for most of our main products is encouraging. We believe that your company is now more favorably situated than ever before to take full advantage of the opportunities which are expected to arise out of the improvement in general business conditions and in the specific industries which we serve."

LIFE INSURANCE
BE OPENED TODAY

Observance of "financial independence week," which is to be celebrated throughout the country this week, was begun here today with a meeting of 1,800 life insurance representatives and various products at breakfast in the Sherman hotel. The announced purpose of the campaign is to impress upon the public ways and means of achieving financial independence and to show how an individual can build up an estate through life insurance.

Elgin led with six new industries. Pekin and Pontiac listed four. Freeport, two. Cities with at least one new industry included Kankakee, East St. Louis, Chicago, Shelbyville, Sandwich, St. Charles, Ottawa, Morris, Evanston, Dixon, Decatur, Danville, Champaign, and many smaller towns throughout the state.

STUDEBAKER HAS HIGHEST SALES
IN FIVE YEARS

South Bend, Ind., March 18.—(Special.)—With more than 8,500 orders for March shipment, the first six months of 1934 promises to be the greatest of all corresponding six months since 1929. Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker Sales Corporation of America, said today:

"Production and sale of Studebaker cars since the introduction of 1934 models last October have been unusually good and our records show that the six month period to end March 31 will be the greatest October-March period we have had since the depression began," said Mr. Hoffman. "On March 31, we will have produced 24,448 cars since Oct. 1, last, or 28 1/2 per cent of the number of cars produced during the similar period a year ago."

Mr. Hoffman made public the tabulation of production of Studebaker cars during October-March periods since October, 1929, as follows: 1929, 26,216; 1930, 24,448; 1931, 28,006; 1932, 14,957, and 1933, 34,363.

ELECTRIC SIGN
COMPANY CUTS
LOSS DURING '33

The annual report of the Federal Electric company, issued yesterday, showed a loss of $46,454 on 1933 operations. In 1932 the company incurred a loss of $207,701.

Merchandising of electrical signs, the principal business of the firm, showed improvement in 1933 when sales were 15 per cent above 1932. The company disposed of its interest in the Chicago Miniature Lamp company for $92,000, of which it has received $47,000. The loss incurred in the sale of the stock plus other adjustments resulted in an increase in net assets of $1,705,002 from $1,632,248 at the beginning of the year.

Business Here Gains Sharply
in Last Week

In industry, utilities, wholesaling, and department store trade improvement was shown here last week, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

A large local automobile assembly plant announced an increase in wages and expansion of output to 400 units a day. Personnel of a company specializing in refrigerators was augmented by 15 per cent. Optimistic for the first time in months, one of the largest electrical manufacturing concerns in the middle west added moderately to its force.

Utility Volume Grows.
In utilities the number of telephones in use in Chicago rose slightly, and gas and electric power were well ahead of those of the same week in 1933.

Two sections, the south and northwest, are giving business to local dealers. "Cotton money" and higher wages are helping southern retailers, who are in turn maintaining a heavy demand for local goods. Consumption in the northwest has been accelerated by improvement in spring crop buying conditions and in the specific industries which we serve."

NEW FIRMS LOCATE HERE.

The Illinois League of Commerce has issued a report showing the introduction of new industries in Chicago and in the surrounding area during the state during 1933. The Clearing Industrial district listed 10 new industries; the New York Central lines, 9. In the Central Manufacturing district there was pronounced expansion, especially in old industries, states the report.

Indicative of "natural business improvement," 78 new industries, providing, at a conservative estimate, 3,088 new jobs and disbursing $1,001,323 in pay rolls, were developed in 44 cities of Illinois outside Chicago, according to the report.

FIXTURE MAKER REPORTS LIGHTER

The depressed conditions prevailing in the building and bowling business were reflected during 1933 in a loss of $875,443 from ordinary operations of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company and a deficit, after further deductions and adjustments, of $715,503.

In 1932 the operating loss amounted to $1,205,539, and the deficit, before adjustments, to $1,066,230. The company is in a strong financial condition, R. F. Bensinger, president, says in his statement accompanying the annual report. Cash and marketable securities as of Dec. 31, 1933, amounted to $1,368,928. Current assets totaled $7,436,811 and current liabilities $418,778.

"During the early months of 1933 the company made preparation and absorbed the necessary experimental and introductory expenses to take full advantage of the possibilities of the manufacture and sale of both stock and special bar fixtures in connection with the advent of the sale of beer and liquor," Mr. Bensinger says. "Unfortunately, both volume and profit have been seriously curtailed so far due to the unreasonable laws passed in some states and the proposed legislation in others for the regulation and control of the retail dispenser. A desirable modification of which would tend to increase both sales and profits in our fixture department materially."

JAPANESE OFFICIAL TELLS NEW POLICY
ON FOREIGN TRADE

New York, March 18.—(AP)—Renzo Sawada, Japanese consul general, today described his nation's new commercial policy as "an important contribution to the cause of world prosperity" in a statement explaining new commercial bills pending in the diet.

"The pending bills, four in number, are designed to accelerate economic cooperation with foreign countries," he said, "by reciprocating measures taken abroad in favor of Japanese goods."

While structural shape awards last week, at 37,208 tons, raised the year's total to 202,247 tons, nearly double that of the similar period of 1932, the average for the five years 1927-1931, amounted to 45,400 tons, points out Steel. Twenty-five hundred tons of concrete bars were awarded last week for a sanitation project at Cleveland. Further tonnages are pending for early action.

Export Outlook Better.
Beehive furnace coke has fallen 25 cents a ton. Last week 109 more ovens were lighted in the Connellsville district; the number of active ovens is now 1,839, the same as in March, 1931.

There have been two favorable developments in the export market. The share of American mills in the order for 400,000 tons of steel pipe anticipated from Russia has been raised. It is understood, from 14,000 to 25,000 tons. Furthermore, instead of applying to English producers, Tata Iron and Steel works in India has ordered 21 steel mill rolls from makers at Pittsburgh.

Steel Orders Halted.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Pittsburgh, Pa., March 18.—Makers of automobiles and parts have virtually stopped buying steel and have postponed deliveries on some orders because of the labor situation in the steel industry. With a general strike a possibility, it was not desired to have stocks of parts that could not be assembled.

Annuling Nichols' Charter.
Anderson, Ind., March 17.—Your article in today's TRIBUNE about J. M. Nichols and his "100 per cent bank" does not go far enough.

The primary duty of a bank does for the community is to furnish credit. Its secondary service of cashing checks, issuing drafts, being a depository for cash and securities and other incidental purposes is subsidiary to its primary duty. A bank is not a service to its customers or to the community in which and by which its very existence is predicated.

The controller of the currency would be justified in annulling its national charter and placing it out of existence on the ground that it is not a bank. Then it might open up as a safety depository, pawn shop, bucket shop, or what not, but not as a bank, until it agreed to perform the primary functions of a bank.

I do not believe that Englewood is the only community in this country whose people do not need credit, but this widely touted "100 per cent bank" does not show in its statement on money loans to any individual. Consequently it is to be hoped that the controller of the currency will give scant consideration to Mr. Nichols' refusal to obey the law as passed by congress.

Railroads and the NRA.
Chicago, March 16.—With all other forms of transportation signed up under NRA, can you advance the reason for the railroads not being listed? How can the government officials travel on trains not flying the Blue Eagle?

They talk about shortening hours, yet in most cases the brotherhoods have not gone below their minimum mileage. This did not mean a thing in the way of helping the unemployed. A check on this last subject would be interesting, I am sure, as long as the United States is not forcing the NRA issue.

Rate of Steel Activity Falls
1 Point to 50%

The moderate falling off last week in automotive specifications, occasioned by uncertainties over employer-labor relations, was to a considerable extent offset by further releases by the railroads, larger structural shape awards, and increased demand for tin plate, according to the magazine Steel.

In addition, makers of agricultural equipment are operating at 40 per cent of the best rate since 1930, and a leading manufacturer of electric refrigerators has the best production schedule in its history. In the face of predictions that steel output would be sharply curtailed, the rate fell last week only one point to 50 per cent of capacity.

Rail Output Higher Here.
Although production of rails increased at Chicago last week, the rate of general operations fell 1 1/2 points to 48 1/2 per cent. Weakness here and in New England was practically counteracted by slight gains in Pittsburgh and in eastern Pennsylvania. First orders for steel barges placed at Pittsburgh in many months require 1,000 tons of steel.

With regard to the President's recent recommendation that steel makers "estimate that with a 10 per cent proposed reduction in hours of labor, they will need 12 per cent more workers. In that event we foresee a shortage of skilled labor."

While structural shape awards last week, at 37,208 tons, raised the year's total to 202,247 tons, nearly double that of the similar period of 1932, the average for the five years 1927-1931, amounted to 45,400 tons, points out Steel. Twenty-five hundred tons of concrete bars were awarded last week for a sanitation project at Cleveland. Further tonnages are pending for early action.

Export Outlook Better.
Beehive furnace coke has fallen 25 cents a ton. Last week 109 more ovens were lighted in the Connellsville district; the number of active ovens is now 1,839, the same as in March, 1931.

There have been two favorable developments in the export market. The share of American mills in the order for 400,000 tons of steel pipe anticipated from Russia has been raised. It is understood, from 14,000 to 25,000 tons. Furthermore, instead of applying to English producers, Tata Iron and Steel works in India has ordered 21 steel mill rolls from makers at Pittsburgh.

Steel Orders Halted.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Pittsburgh, Pa., March 18.—Makers of automobiles and parts have virtually stopped buying steel and have postponed deliveries on some orders because of the labor situation in the steel industry. With a general strike a possibility, it was not desired to have stocks of parts that could not be assembled.

LOWER REVENUES

Philadelphia, Pa., March 18.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad in a statement today said a "further notable increase" in efficiency of operations is revealed in the income statement for 1933, which has been completed for inclusion in the forthcoming annual reports.

Although the gross operating revenues, which amounted to $24,715,813, were $6,777,543 less than in 1932, operating expenses were reduced by $15,248,265, the statement said. There was also a saving of nearly a million dollars in hire of equipment and taxes were three and three-quarter millions lower.

As a result, the net railway operating income for 1933, amounting to $61,976,835, was $12,844,520 greater than in 1932.

Fear Labor Troubles
in Other Lines.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, March 18.—Wall street's big worry at the moment is the threatened automobile strike which may or may not come off this week.

It has been a pet conviction of the speculative fraternity for some time that this so-called "key" industry would show the way in whatever a spring advance there might be on the cards. Orders from the big production centers, it was reasoned, would provide steam for a quickening of operations in the steel trade and materially to railroad carloadings and send a stimulating flow of nutritive funds into business arteries generally.

Good News Brushed Aside.
Now, with the strike cloud looming so ominously on the horizon, all these rosy prospects have been brushed aside. Trade statistics, favorable as they continue to be, are held to be of no account as stock market factors with such a major problem pressing for immediate solution. A strike in the automobile plants might well extend its sphere into other fields, it is realized, and so set at naught much of the progress already made in the struggle to put the depression behind.

Indeed, developments toward the end of the week made it appear that the labor difficulties already coming to the fore in the steel industry might add to the gloom sooner than anticipated. The railroad labor situation is generally realized also to hold potentialities of serious moment.

Fletcher Bill Forgotten.
Forebodings along this line have served to sidetrack for the moment the market's stock fever—viz., anxiety over the so-called Fletcher-Ryan bill for security exchange regulation. They have brought speculation for the time being to a complete standstill. The averages finished last night almost exactly where they were a week ago. They are some seven points below last month's best achievement.

One feature of encouragement to speculators committed to the constructive side is that there has been no wide open break in spite of the many uncertainties the market has had to carry of late. The nearest approach to one came last week on the heels of Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau's announcement that the administration was opposed to silver legislation at this time.

Some of the stocks of silver producing companies cracked as much as nine points in the selling rush which followed this development, but they steadied before the end of the session and the following day found the leaders of the group recovering some of their lost ground. The Morgenthau statement had an adverse effect on the whole list, being interpreted as a blow to the general idea of inflation in the nearby future.

In Position to Advance.
Aside from its political and labor worries the market is by common consent at a point whence it might easily move ahead. For business still displays a tendency to extend the year expansion in trade and production. Bonds have moved into new high ground for the recovery in the last few days. Washington has not reached the climax of its program for promoting business recovery and the Wall Street viewpoint, at least, would force seem to be operating on the side of gradual trade expansion.

VIEW OF THE WEEK ON OUTLOOK FOR WHEAT PRICES
Premium Here Offsets Crop Conditions.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.
Sentiment in wheat has been changing with the same frequency which has marked erratic fluctuations in price. A distinctly bearish view is now taken by many who base their attitude on a large number of cash grain prices are practically double those of a year ago, and further away from the world's level than ever.

The absolute limit of an advance in the domestic price, they feel, will be the world level, plus the import duty of 42 cents per bushel and shipping charges to this country.

Lack of subsoil moisture on which the wheat crop will be forced to depend to a considerable extent with the development of the winter wheat crop practically all the winter wheat spring grain area east of the Rockies. It is on this threat to curtail production that other observers are inclined to place faith in an ultimately higher level of values.

Watch AAA Program.
With American markets far above an export level one is forced to give more or less consideration to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's program to reduce production to requirements. Were a wheat crop of 50,000,000 bushels to be harvested in 1934 it would again necessitate drawing heavily on the carryover from 1933. This season, which is estimated, may be around 250,000,000 bushels. A reason about double the normal amount.

Scattered liquidation developed in May wheat last week with the delivery closing Saturday at 87 1/2 cents, or 1/2 cent above the previous week. July closed at 87 1/2 cents and closed at 87 1/2 cents, while September was 87 1/2 cents. Range of prices follows:

Table with 3 columns: Month, Price, and Change. Rows for May, July, and September.

Corn Situation Stronger.
The situation prevailing in corn is the exact reverse of wheat. There is no burdensome supply, and the price is close to a world level, with expectations of more or less export business developing in the immediate future. There is likewise no surplus corn this season in any country because of the drought damage in Argentina, Danubian corn is also in poor condition for shipment.

The AAA corn production campaign embracing the 1934 crop calls for a reduction of around 20 per cent from the 1933-34 total which if a 100 per cent sign-up was accomplished would suggest around 65,000,000 acres. There are so many readjustments to be made that it is impossible even for AAA officials to tell definitely how much acreage will be planted.

Speculative interest in corn has been at a minimum. The price holding close to the 50 cent level for the May delivery. This contract closed Saturday at 51 1/2 cents, July at 53 cents, and September at 54 1/2 cents, prices representing a drop of 1/2 cent for the week. Range of prices follows:

Table with 3 columns: Month, Price, and Change. Rows for May, July, and September.

Oats Range Narrow.
Prospects of a larger oats acreage this season than in 1933 failed to have much effect on the market, but the outlook for the new crop is thought likely to become a major market factor within a few weeks.

Prices have been holding within comparatively narrow limits with the close Saturday 1/2 cent below the previous week. May finished at 34 1/2 cents, July at 34 1/2 cents, and September at 34 1/2 cents. Range of prices follows:

Table with 3 columns: Month, Price, and Change. Rows for May, July, and September.

Speculative buyers of rice futures had expected higher prices for the hard spots during the week. Volume of business was usually small. Open interest at the close was 11,251,000 bushels, compared with 11,000,000 bushels a week ago. May rice futures were 19 1/2 cents, the net loss on all futures was 1/2 cent for the week.

Barley futures were unchanged to 1/2 cent lower for the week with May at 44 cents and July at 48 cents.

Business Index Higher;
Auto Production Factor

The Annalist index of business activity shows a rise of 1.4 points for February to a preliminary figure of 78.5. The most important factor in the increase was an advance in the automobile production index. Indices of electric power output, freight car loadings, and steel output production also rose substantially.

CHICAGO'S FAIR

PROFITABLE FOR GREYHOUND LINE

Half of 1933 Net Derived from Exposition.

Revenue from operations at a Century of Progress accounted for more than half of the net profit of $979,923 received in dividends and interest by the Greyhound corporation during 1933 according to the annual report. In 1932 net profit amounted to $95,866. Last year's total income from dividends and interest was $1,469,574, according to the annual report.

To supply the corporation provided through its subsidiary Greyhound Lines, which operates a fleet of buses whose operations resulted in a net revenue of $1,057,580. After payment of all expenses, deduction of a Century of Progress share of the earnings, and writing off the net profit of $1,000 each from the sale of 100 shares of Greyhound corporation in dividends.

Will Serve Fair This Year.
"We will continue to give this service in 1934 under a new contract which will allow us a considerably smaller share of the earnings," declared C. E. Wickman, president, in his statement accompanying the report.

The corporation's earnings report shows an increase only dividends and interest received from which are deducted interest paid and general expenses. Profit and loss from operations and retirement of notes, and surplus and investment reserve.

The corporation also owns interests in 14 associated bus companies constituting the national system of Greyhound Lines, has an equity in their undivided net profits or losses, which, when added to the realized earnings of the corporation, shows the results of the operation of the entire Greyhound system as it affects the interests of the stockholders of Greyhound corporation, directly and indirectly.

"Back On Profit Basis."
"On this basis," says the report, "the earnings of the corporation, together with the net earnings applicable to the interest of the corporation in all associated companies, after eliminating dividends, totaled $1,959,303 in 1933, as compared with a loss of $1,000 in 1932."

During 1933 the corporation retired more than $2,000,000 of funded debt and other obligations, according to the report. Its cash balance increased $215,677 to $417,261.

System during January and February, 1934 were better than the corresponding period of 1933, Mr. Wickman states. The corporation is now working with manufacturers on a new bus to be brought out in 1935.

TIN SHARPLY HIGHER.
Domestic buyers of tin have shown little inclination to pick up metal, except as it is needed for the construction of the recent sharp upturn in prices.

Investors' Guide: Would you be kind enough to advise the writer as to the standing of Northwestern Mutual of Milwaukee? The writer may possibly take out an annuity in M. G.

Answer: Beginning business in 1859, Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, Milwaukee, can point to an excellent record of stability and steady growth. Insurance in force increased uninterruptedly, reaching a peak of 4,998 million dollars in 1931. Practically all insurance companies reported decreases in 1932 and 1933. At the close of 1933 Northwestern Mutual had $399 million, followed in 1933 by $314 million. The decreases were smaller than the average declines for insurance companies as a whole.

Income in 1933 was $13,711,000 and disbursements were $17,098,000. At the close of 1933 mortgages were about 37 per cent of admitted assets, about equally divided between city and farm loans. The management has followed the policy of lending not more than 40 per cent of the fair market value of land. The result of this is apparent in the 1933 annual statement. Farm and city real estate owned only 2 1/2 per cent of admitted assets, or almost all the cash and United States government bonds constituted 5.49 per cent of assets; other domestic and Canadian government bonds, 6.88 per cent; utility bonds, 2.12 per cent; and loans were 23 1/2 per cent. Policy assets totaled $998,295,000, against $999,044,000 the year before. Surplus over all liabilities, termed a reserve for contingencies, amounted to $65,240,000.

Globe Oil.
Investors' Guide: I see by your paper that you have a financial inquiry department. I would like to know what the Globe Oil company is. Is it a refinery? Where incorporated? Is it the home office?—L. J.

Answer: The only Globe Oil company on which we have data appears to have been passed out of the picture about fourteen years ago. It was incorporated in Delaware in 1917 and owned oil lands on which production at one time was 1,400 barrels a day. In May, 1920, receivers were appointed in Louisiana to Old Farmers in the Caddo district, alleged to have been bought and not paid for. In addition to the 2,709,397 shares of $1 per share stock there were outstanding $730,000 of mortgage 7 per cent notes due serially to Feb. 15, 1922. As the time the mortgage was issued the company was 507 Wright buildings, Tulsa, Okla.

CARRIERS DRIVE FOR RELIEF FROM LONG HAIL RULE

Desire Modification by Present Congress.

A concerted drive has been launched to obtain relief or modification of the long and short haul provision of the interstate commerce act at this session of congress, according to James E. Gorman, president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad and chairman of the Western Railways' committee on public relations.

Changes in transportation conditions since 1920, when the present provision was adopted, must be recognized if the railways are to be given the opportunity to make earnings necessary to contribute their share toward the nation's economic recovery by giving good service, and adequately increasing employment and purchases from other industries, Mr. Gorman says.

Competition Brings Change.

"The principal cause of the revolution in transportation has been the great increase in competition of carriers by water and highway which has made it impossible for railroads as they are now to compete with these other modes of transportation."

Mr. Gorman declared that mountain states have been injured by the fact that they have lost and are continuing to lose large amounts of traffic only because of governmental restriction imposed on them and not on competitors.

"It is significant that in the years from 1910 to 1920 when the railways were allowed to get part of the traffic moving to the Pacific coast by making rates of the intermountain competition, the population of the intermountain territory increased 27 per cent and that of the United States 18 per cent. From 1920 to 1930, when the railways were not allowed to make such concessions, population of the intermountain territory gained but 11 per cent and the United States 16 per cent."

"This bill is of especial importance to middle western states because the present method of rate making places their industries at a serious disadvantage in competing with industries on the Atlantic seaboard for business on the Pacific coast. It diverts to the Atlantic seaboard the traffic of the middle west, traffic which the railways of this territory surely need to maintain their service and employment."

Seek Just Legislation.

He said the railways are not seeking restoration of a "so-called monopoly" but desire only legislation which will give them an opportunity to compete for traffic on the same terms as other carriers have been given. He said the measure has been advocated by the National Industrial Traffic League, Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and 21 standard railway labor organizations. A bill for the proposed legislation has been introduced by Rep. Pettengill of Indiana.
